number of people [approximately 700] hearing the applause, it's an experience I'd never felt before," said Salas. "I'm excited and nervous, but I think it's more excitement to see where I can go and what I can do with eSports."

eSports at STC has provided both seniors with opportunities they didn't imagine possible.

"I like playing eSports. Playing with people I don't know well has always been fun because I like meeting new people and developing new relationships. I love the people that are in eSports. Most of them are fun to be around," jokes Salas. "They help you out, they reassure you, and it's a really positive community."

While they're racing to compete in this season of Mario Kart and towards graduation, Hill and Salas want to encourage others to join the eSports team at

"Even if you don't play video games, you can certainly join eSports because we have a very positive reinforcement team. Don't be scared. It's a very open community," said Salas.

"Just try it. You're going to miss out if you don't," said Hill.

Carnahan is simply excited to see eSports being widely embraced so quick-

"I'm just super happy this sport has taken off and been embraced by the school district, the student body, and the community. I'm super proud of the students who have earned their way to play after high school and participate in college," said Coach Carnahan. "You can just see that it helps students completely come out of their shells and boost their confidence. This is going to give them something to hang their hat on. It makes them proud and lays the foundation for their future success. I'm excited about the future aspects of eSports as STC."

With the upcoming Mario Kart Deluxe 8 season starting soon, Hill and Salas, along with the other six seniors on the team, are hyped for their last season

"I don't want to necessarily 'leave a big one,' but I definitely want to impact how practices go and how people can learn to have fun while also learning a few things about eSports," said Hill. "Personally, eSports is a lot on mindset. [It] isn't physically demanding like football or soccer. It's a big mental game. If you go in there worried sick because I used to do that during our Smash Bros and prior Mario Kart season. I used to be so worried, which greatly affected my gameplay. But if you go in there, take a real deep breath and say 'I'm going to do this,' 98% of the time you're going to

Coach Carnahan is doing everything he can to help support this season's team in making it to state

"We're a returning state tournament qualifier from our first season last year. We're looking at our team, and we're pretty confident. We've got a good team, top to bottom [and] looking forward to this season," said Coach Carnahan. "It's fun. The kids seem super excited and enthusiastic about it. They want to improve their playing. That's always a sign of a good group of teammates. We will be stressing cooperation amongst the team and sportsmanship instead of just going at this and trying to do their individual best."

The eSports varsity team has their first game on March 21 at 4 p.m. in the South Tama High School Commons Room, and Coach Carnahan wants to encourage everyone in the community to come to support these players, "We hope we get some fans here to show their support and check us out."

Present: Supervisors Hilmer,

Faircloth, Anderson. Tama County Auditor Laura Kopsa, several members of the Tama County Against Wind Turbines Coalition. Deputy Sheriff Schmidt was also present. Bev Espenscheid spoke on behalf of the group. She shared that utility bills are a hot topic right now. Summer rates are higher that winter rates. Summer is when turbines produce the least amount of energy. Are these companies reducing the rates or keeping the profits. She has not seen a reduction on her bill. Turbine companies pay taxes on only 30% of the value of the turbine. There is concern about repowering the Vienna turbines and what is required to do that. The Supervisors will look into that. Also about possible damage to the roads while doing that. There is a Road Use Agreement in place that requires the turbine company to take care of all those road issues. She and the group asked the Supervisors to put a moratorium on wind projects while the County works on updating the wind ordinance and creating an industrial solar ordinance. They are ready and willing to help.

There were also concerns about CO2 pipelines coming through the County and making EMS an essential function.
