A parcel of land lying to the southeast of the Mulberry Center Church at Wilson Brewer Park, in Webster City, is part of a discussion on proposed improvements to the park that will take place tonight immediately following the regular meeting of the City Council of Webster City. The Council and the board of Wilson Brewer Park will talk about how to go forward with the parcel, and a proposed gift of $1 million from the Dean Bowden family, above. Below, a closer look at the parcel.

A work session with the City Council of Webster City and the Wilson Brewer Park board will wade through the realities of taking on more projects at the historic park.

By JANE CURTIS

The reckoning of deferred maintenance, a lack of aggressive oversight, and proposals for the future will likely collide tonight when the City Council of Webster City holds a work session with the board of Wilson Brewer Park.

The meeting directly follows the regular city council meeting, which begins at 6 p.m. in the council chambers of City Hall, 400 Second St., Webster City.

The condition of the historic park, which is the site of this town's origin and named after its founder, Wilson Brewer, has vacillated over decades between beloved, quaint, and quiet to recent more ambitious accomplishments, including the moving and remodeling of the two original log cabins, the addition of a train caboose, and the threading throughout the park of a concrete pathway that has dramatically increased ac-

SON FATALLY INJURED WHEN HIT BY AUTO
Petition Has Been Filed in Local District Court
TURPIN NAMED, TOO
Accident Happened on East Side the Night of Sept. 16.

Mrs. Augusta C. Fox has filed suit in district court here against Ward Carson and Garland Turpin for $20,000 damages.

The suit comes as a result of the accident on the east side of the city when Melvin Fox was struck and fatally injured by the car occupied by the two defendants.

Sets forth charges.

In her petition, Mrs. Fox alleges that Turpin was operating Carson's car with his consent, that the pair were travelling at a high rate of speed, gave no warning when the car wheels left the pavement onto the shoulder, did not reduce the speed of the car, did not keep a proper lookout for passersby, the brake were faulty and that the defendants were unable to stop within their range of motion.

Fox was walking along the shoulder of the pavement of highway No. 20 on the east side of the city late at night Sept. 16 with Mr. and Mrs. ... Clark and their daughter. Fox was struck by the passing automobile and fatally injured.

The car was not stopped, but the police later arrested Garland Turpin in connection with the accident and he implicated Carson. Turpin admitted having been driving Carson's car and that Carson was with him all the time.

Died at Hospital.

Fox was taken to the hospital and died several hours later. At the coroner's inquest the jurors held that both Carson and Turpin had been drinking and that the Carson auto had been driven onto the shoulder of the pavement at the time of the accident.

County Bands Will Play in Nixon Parade

Two Hamilton county school bands — Randall and Jewell — will take part in the big parade at Fort Dodge next Wednesday when Richard Nixon, Republican candidate for vice president, will be speaker at a north central Iowa rally honoring Nixon's arrival in Iowa.

W.C. Fastenow, chairman in charge of arrangements for a Hamilton county caravan to Fort Dodge, said today that the Randall and Jewell bands are scheduled to go through Webster City at 3:15 p.m. Wednesday.

A large caravan of Hamilton county Republicans will form in front of the G.O.P. headquarters in the 500 block on Second street, and will leave about 3:45 for Fort Dodge.

All those wishing to take part are asked to be at the headquarters between 3:30 and 3:45 and assignments will be made as well as car decorations. Anyone wishing a ride is welcome to join the caravan, Fastenow said.

The parade down Fort Dodge's Central avenue will start at 4:15 and will head for the city park in the downtown area where a special platform will be erected for the speaker.

Senator Nixon will pass through Webster City on the Illinois Central going from Waterloo to Fort Dodge. After his appearance there he will head on toward Sioux City.

cess to the multiple park buildings.

For years, as a quaint park gifted to the city by the Brewer family with the stipulation that it remain a park, it was taken care of with a minimum of upkeep, though that minimum encompassed what could be termed "deferred maintenance."

In its emerging iteration, the concern is that it would tap into the city's general fund to a degree the city worries it cannot sustain.

In that climate, the city and WBP board find themselves being asked to accept a large gift - $1 million - from the Dean Bowden family to build a proposed Hamilton County Heritage Center.

The Heritage Center, proposed as a monitor-style barn, would be sited on land that is currently owned by Hamilton County, though it was part of the original Brewer family gift to Webster City.

The Hamilton County Board of Supervisors propose deeding that land, which is east of an existing parking lot that is south of Mulberry Center Church.

The Supervisors are suggesting that a new city/county initiative oversee the proposed Hamilton County Heritage Center. That would require a reorganization of the existing board.

Couple hopes sculpture helps families grieving after loss

MASON CITY (AP) — A new Lullaby Lane sculpture at Elmwood-St. Joseph Cemetery in Mason City, was dedicated recently by Kyle and Kristi Easley.

The sculpture was a way to honor their second child, who was stillborn, and a way to bring comfort and peace to other parents experiencing the same loss.

Kyle said he and his wife couldn't have gotten through the pain without the emotional support of other families dealing with infant loss.

"I found the best way to deal with grief is to do things to help people or to honor those that have gone," he said. "The challenge with this is how do you honor someone you never got to know. A life that never had a chance. It was something I struggled with."

While visiting his daughter's grave last year, Easley said he was just looking over the area surrounding Lullaby Lane, a dedicated section for child interment, when inspiration hit.

Having a deep appreciation for art and having worked with Mason City's Sculptures On Parade as a member of the park board he thought, "What if I bought a sculpture and donated it to the cemetery?"

The process of finding the right sculpture took many months.

"We were trying to figure out a piece that was meaningful and fit the space," Easley told the Mason City Globe Gazette. "We felt we were looking for something fun and childlike."

The Easleys had almost given up and thought they might have to commission an artist when one last look them the answer. "Kristi got this gleam in her eye and we instantly knew this would be perfect," Easley said.

The sculpture, entitled "Arc of Peace," is the work of Lorri Acott, a Colorado artist.

The sculpture was on tour in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, when Anderson inquired about it. The Easleys had hoped to purchase it and have it in place by Memorial Day this year. After a few timeline delays the family learned that when the artist found out what the Easleys wanted to do with it, she was so touched she recast the sculpture.

The story behind "Arc of Peace" held special meaning to the Easleys. The piece was partially inspired by the Japanese story of a 1,000 paper cranes. It is the story of a young girl who developed leukemia from the radiation caused by the atomic bombs dropped during World War II.

The girl had been told if she folded these cranes she would be granted one wish. Her wish was to live. The girl only made it to 644 cranes before she died.

Easley said when he read the story he broke down and cried because his best friend had a very aggressive form of leukemia and died last year. "He did everything he could. He just wanted to live. That was my sign," Easley said.

Time to say 'thanks'

Years ago I picked up some extra money by shooting weddings — with a camera, of course.

Two friends were getting married and asked me to photograph their wedding. The ceremony was held in a beautiful older home, providing some great settings for photos. This was a second marriage for both parties and the plans were for a simple ceremony with close friends and relatives.

I arrived early to find the chaos that reigns in the hours and minutes directly before a wedding ceremony. Friends of the couple were preparing goodies for the reception, so I hung out in the kitchen where I noticed a middle-aged woman chain-smoking cigarettes and belting down mixed drinks. I had no idea who she was.

When the bride and groom were ready I shot the formal photos and then went back to the kitchen to wait for the ceremony. Some time later, I heard the bride ask if anyone had seen the minister. I had seen no one who looked like a minister.

Finally, someone announced that the minister was ready. I got into position to begin shooting and who should walk to the front of the room but the middle-aged woman I had observed puffing smokes and tossing back cocktails. She performed a lovely ceremony and the evening proceeded nicely.

Having been raised in a conservative church where tobacco, alcohol and female ministers were all taboo, I was surprised to learn this woman was a member of the clergy. During the evening, however, I overheard several people discuss how much they loved her and what a wonderful job she did for their church.

Over the years I've met a number of pastors and count several as close friends. The woman who officiated at my friends' wedding reminded me that clergypersons come in different shapes, sizes, personalities, genders and doctrines. What they have in common is that they have a difficult job.

So difficult is the job of a pastor, the church is losing clergy in increasing numbers. As of March 2022, the percentage of pastors who have considered quitting full-time ministry within the past year sits at 42 percent. This is according to barna.com, a national research firm. Barna's report indicated the 42 percent figure is up 13 percentage points from January 2021.

The barna.com report stated that 56 percent of those pastors

Country Roads

By Arvid Huisman
huismaniowa@gmail.com

who have considered quitting full-time ministry say "the immense stress of the job" is one of their reasons. In addition, 43 percent said, "I feel lonely and isolated" and 38 percent named "current political divisions" as reasons why they have considered leaving the ministry.

Other reasons pastors gave for their discouragement include: "I am unhappy with the effect this role has had on my family" and "my vision for the church conflicts with the church's direction."

The statistic that saddens me most is that 21 percent — one out of five pastors — said, "I don't feel respected by the congregants." Not so long ago members of the clergy were among the most respected members of a community.

With so many problems, why do pastors remain in the ministry?

An older pastor posted on another website, "Obedience to the call of God has kept me faithful to my assignment. Through the struggles and the victories I press toward the mark, knowing that one day I will stand before the Lord and give an account of my life and ministry. The call will keep you."

Every day of the year tens of thousands of dedicated clergymen and women serve their congregations despite the problems because of the strong calling they feel to the ministry. Certainly some congregations are easier on their pastors than others, but many pastors face challenges in fulfilling their commitment to their calling.

Something many pastors don't experience often enough is hearing a simple, heartfelt "thank you."

October is Pastor Appreciation Month and now is an especially good time to give your pastor, priest or rabbi a hug or a handshake and say "thanks."

One more thing: Taking your pastor out for lunch or for a cup of coffee — or an ice cream sundae! — would amplify your "thank you."

Why you need dental insurance in retirement.

Many Americans are fortunate to have dental coverage for their entire working life, through employer-provided benefits. When those benefits end with retirement, paying dental bills out-of-pocket can come as a shock, leading people to put off or even go without care. Simply put – without dental insurance, there may be an important gap in your healthcare coverage.

When you're comparing plans...

- ▶ Look for coverage that helps pay for major services. Some plans may limit the number of procedures – or pay for preventive care only.
- ▶ Look for coverage with no deductibles. Some plans may require you to pay hundreds out of pocket before benefits are paid.
- ▶ Shop for coverage with no annual maximum on cash benefits. Some plans have annual maximums of $1,000.

Medicare doesn't pay for dental care.¹
 That's right. As good as Medicare is, it was never meant to cover everything. That means if you want protection, you need to purchase individual insurance.

Early detection can prevent small problems from becoming expensive ones.
 The best way to prevent large dental bills is preventive care. The American Dental Association recommends checkups twice a year.

Previous dental work can wear out.
 Even if you've had quality dental work in the past, you shouldn't take your dental health for granted. In fact, your odds of having a dental problem only go up as you age.²

Treatment is expensive — especially the services people over 50 often need.
 Consider these national average costs of treatment ... $217 for a checkup ... $189 for a filling ... $1,219 for a crown.³ Unexpected bills like this can be a real burden, especially if you're on a fixed income.

Cherry runs for five touchdowns as Lynx roll

WEBSTER CITY — As they have done each time this season, the Webster City football team picked itself up after a loss and dominated.

The Lynx strengthened their hold on a playoff bid with a 55-7 victory over Storm Lake here Friday night. Webster City (5-3 overall) closes out the regular season this week against Denison-Schleswig.

After losses to Humboldt, Waverly-Shell Rock and Spencer this year, the Lynx have come out with a vengeance, outscoring their next opponents by a combined 158-21.

"Since all three losses have been against very good teams, it's not always a case of bouncing back," WCHS head coach Bob Howard said. "It's staying focused on getting better each practice and sticking to what we do."

Webster City scored 34 points in the opening 12 minutes, and led 47-0 at the break. Storm Lake finally got on the scoreboard in the fourth.

Hawks perfect in district play

EAGLE GROVE — The South Hamilton football team made quite the statement here in the regular season finale. The Hawks finished off a perfect run through the district with a dominating 60-12 victory over Eagle Grove.

South Hamilton (7-1 overall) advances to the Class 1A playoffs, hosting Ridge View (4-4) this Friday night.

Landen Skartvedt continued to shine since returning from a preseason injury, rushing for 160 yards and two touchdowns on just 11 carries. Skartvedt was one of five Hawk players to average over 10.5 yards per carry on the night, as they racked up 470 yards and eight TDs on the ground.

Tjerdan Johnson used his legs instead of his arm, as the junior quarterback had 83 yards and a pair of scores on just four totes, while sophomore Nick Severseike had 79 yards and two touchdowns on five carries.

WEBSTER CITY — Clarion-Goldfield-Dows volleyball downed Webster City 3-0 in a tightly contested match Thursday winning 26-24, 25-19, 25-18. The Cowgirls finished North Central Conference play with a perfect 7-0 record, Humboldt was second at 6-1 while the Lynx finished 4-3 in a three way tie for third place with Algona and Clear Lake.

All three sets featured several long volleys, huge blocks.

Cyclones can't hold off No. 22 Texas

By MARK ROSNER
Associated Press

AUSTIN, Texas — Texas believes it's a tougher, more resilient team that last season — and the Longhorns are showing it so far this fall.

The latest evidence came Saturday as No. 22 Texas, trailing struggling Iowa State in the fourth quarter, rallied to win 24-21.

Quinn Ewers threw for three touchdowns, including the go-ahead, 3-yard pass to Xavier Worthy with 4:43 remaining. Linebacker Jaylan Ford produced two turnovers, including a fumble recovery with 2:28 to play.

Bijan Robinson rushed for 135 yards, his fifth straight game exceeding 100, against the Big 12's top defense.

The Longhorns (5-2, 3-1 Big 12) snapped a three-game losing streak against Iowa State and handed the Cyclones (3-4, 0-4) their fourth straight defeat.

Four TDs for UNI's Day

CEDAR FALLS — Theo Day threw three touchdown passes, ran for another score, and Northern Iowa racked up 548 yards on offense in a 42-14 victory over Utah Tech on Saturday.

The Panthers (3-4) struck early, with Day's 44-yard touchdown pass to Sergio Morancy coming on their first possession. Day threw second-quarter TD passes of 32 yards to Desmond Hutson and 70 yards to Sam Schnee for a 34-7 halftime lead. Day's 1-yard run early in the third quarter was UNI's final score of the game.

Day completed 13 of 23 passes for 308 yards, an average of 23.7 yards per completion. Dom Williams had 92 yards rushing on 12 carries and the Panthers had 229 yards on the ground.

Boone Abbott completed 12 of 22 passes for 162 yards with touchdowns of 11 yards to Joey Hobert and 30 yards to Rickie Johnson. Abbott was intercepted twice.

Utah Tech fell to 1-5.

Bills rally to beat Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Von Miller had just finished talking about the importance of the Buffalo Bills beating the Kansas City Chiefs at Arrowhead Stadium when he stopped in the hallway outside the visiting locker room and grabbed Josh Allen in a hug.

The Bills quarterback was masterful again on Sunday.

This time, it was in a winning effort.

Allen threw for 329 yards and three touchdowns, including the go-ahead toss to Dawson Knox with 1:04 left, and the Bills held on for a 24-20 victory to exact a measure of revenge for their epic overtime loss to Patrick Mahomes and the Chiefs in last year's playoffs.

"I've come to this stadium a whole bunch of times. Been at this same podium. But I ain't have many smiles," Miller said. "It just feels so good to go out there with my teammates, to work toward something like this and come out on top."

Stefon Diggs had 10 catches for 148 yards and a touchdown, and Gabe Davis also had a TD catch after torching Kansas City for four of them in January, as the Bills (5-1) won in the same place their season had ended the past two seasons.

Jaxon Cherry ran for 154 yards and five touchdowns on just 12 carries, averaging almost 13 yards per tote. Ty McKinney had 63 yards rushing and was a perfect 3-for-3 passing for 88 yards and two scores, giving him a quarterback rating of 346.4 on the night.

Cael Nixon ran for 82 yards and a touchdown, CJ Hisler had 71 and Jayden Weinzetl 50. Keegan Hisler caught two passes for 80 yards with a score, while Brendyn Carlsen also caught a touchdown from McKinney. "We have a small senior class, but several of them are three- and four-year starters and have played on some successful teams," Howard said. "They know how to prepare and how to ignore the noise and keep moving forward toward their goals, providing examples for our younger players."

On defense, Nixon recorded 6.5 tackles with a sack, Skyler Scott had a sack, Luke Estlund recovered a fumble and McKinney picked off a pass.

Denison-Schleswig suffered a 28-7 loss to Fort Dodge last week. Last season, Webster City earned a 56-14 victory over the Monarchs.

"Same focus as every week: making the most of the practice time we have available," Howard said. "Denison-Schleswig presents a great challenge with their passing game, athletic quarterback and their linebackers."

Texas went 5-7 a year ago, Steve Sarkisian's first as coach. The Longhorns have worked to make wouldn't happen this fall.

"This is completely different than last year," Robinson said. "We would have lost the game last year, in my opinion."

There were indications that Texas might lose this one, too. Iowa State moved to the Texas 32 with two receptions by its spectacular receiver, Xavier Hutchinson. But Hutchinson also dropped a long one at the Texas 9.

"I came up short," Hutchinson said. "How I look at it, is if I make that catch we probably win the game."

The Cyclones were still in position to pull off a surprise win, but quarterback Hunter Dekkers fumbled at the 32. Anthony Cook forced the fumble, Ford recovered, and the officials conducted a video review to determine if Dekkers' knee was down or if there was targeting by Texas.

Both reviews went the Longhorns' way.

"When I saw the ball out, like, I gotta go get it," Ford said. "Shout out to Cook. He came down with a big hit on the ball."

Iowa State, whose offense has struggled to score this season, had an opportunity to go up 14-0 six minutes into the second quarter. But Dekkers' pass was intercepted in the end zone by Ford.

The Longhorns then moved 80 yards to tie the game on a 15-yard pass from Ewers to Worthy. Less than six minutes later, Ewers connected with Jordan Whittington for a 5-yard touchdown.

Texas added a field goal in the third quarter but could not put Iowa State away. First, Dekkers found sophomore Jaylin Noel over the middle for a 54-yard touchdown, his second of the game. Dekkers, a sophomore first-year starter, completed 25 of 36 for a career-best 329 yards.

The Cyclones took their last lead, 21-17, on Dekkers' 11-yard run up the middle with 10:58 remaining.

"I'm so proud of him," coach Matt Campbell said. "It's hard to battle through the growth process when the ball is in your hands every play."

Texas responded to Dekkers' run by moving 75 yards on 11 plays for the go-ahead score. Ewers connected with Robinson for 13 yards on third and six along the way.

"We didn't play very good," Sarkisian said. "But we played hard, and we played tough. Generally that's the sign of a pretty good team when you can not play your best football, but find a way to win."

and strong attacks. The Cowgirls were quick to the ball and found just enough opening in the Lynx defense to win each set.

On Saturday in Winterset the Lynx finished second in pool play, losing to Red Oak 17-21, 14-21 and beating Greene County 16-21, 21-14, 15-9 and Winterset 21-17, 12-21, 15-10 to advance to bracket action where they lost to Norwalk 19-21, 14-21.

"We were able to go up against some tough competition both Thursday and Saturday which is what we need in preparation for the post-season" commented Lynx Coach Jess Howard.

"We are doing some really good things on the court right now and are playing the way we need to at this point in the season. The girls are finding their potential right now and are ready for an exciting post-season run."

The Lynx (20-15) will open Class 4A Region 6 competition Tuesday at home hosting Fort Dodge (8-21). First serve is at 7 p.m. The winner will advance to play at Western Dubuque on Thursday.

Severseike had an interception, with Johnson, Skartvedt, Blake Harris, Carter Stolee and Aiden Johnson each recovering a fumble.

Since a Week 3 loss to West Marshall, the Hawks have reeled off five consecutive wins, scoring over 38 points in all five. They have posted 58, 62, 54 and 60 in four of their last five, allowing no more than 14 during that stretch.

Ridge View (4-4) secured its postseason bid with a 28-7 win over Sibley-Ocheyedan. The Raptors lost to fellow playoff qualifiers OABCIG, Unity Christian, West Sioux and Emmetsburg during the season.

Unsure how to address grandchild's new pronouns

Dear Annie: I am 60 years old, and my husband is 65. When we are out together, he stares at younger women in their 20s. I mean -- he stares and stares. This is very embarrassing for me, and it makes me feel disrespected. When I tell him what he does, he says I am lying and that it's all in my head. He says I have no confidence. Please can you help me? Am I making too much of this? -- Embarrassed

Dear Embarrassed: Your husband IS disrespecting you. To make you feel bad about not wanting him to leer at 20-year-old women is just plain wrong. You are 100% correct that his behavior is inappropriate. It has nothing to do with confidence and everything to do with class and respect. He has to cut that out.

Dear Annie: I am an attentive, loving grandmother to a handful of grandchildren. Last Christmas, it was announced two weeks prior to their arrival that one of the grandchildren was choosing to identify as the opposite sex while being underage. We were asked to play along with the NEW name!

We are trying to wrap our heads around this. In the meantime, the child has started taking drug therapy to permanently deepen their voice. Would this not be considered child abuse on the parent's part to allow their underage child to make an adult decision that is irreversible?

Another question: What young teen is capable of making such a life-altering decision? -- Concerned Grandparent

Dear Concerned Grandparent: Since you are the grandparent and not the parent of the child, your options are limited. You can tell the parents how you feel about this, especially your thoughts on the measures being taken that are irreversible. As for the child, embrace them with open arms and lots of love and call them by whatever name they want to be called by.

Dear Annie: I am writing about the letter from "Grieving Cousin," and I want to state emphatically that suicide is never someone else's fault.

Suicide is not the fault of an ex-lover, former boss or anyone else. We have all been dumped, fired or otherwise snubbed. While it doesn't feel good, most people don't respond by taking their own lives. No one should be made to feel it's their fault that someone died by suicide.

Similarly, people who die by suicide have usually been feeling hopeless and depressed for some time. Many have a long history of suffering with depression, anxiety, PTSD, bipolar disorder, schizophrenia, trauma or other mental health issues. It is rarely an impulsive act.

I'd like to share some accurate, professional resources about suicide:

Supplement that reduces inflammation needs to be better studied

DEAR DR. ROACH: I have a friend with multiple health problems, mostly digestive and throat, who has recently discovered the supplement astaxanthin through his treatment with a nutritionist. He is extremely optimistic that this supplement is his ticket to better health. He said it was developed by a biochemical engineer. As a doctor, would you recommend this for your patients? He says it is a powerful antioxidant and reduces inflammation. He also believes it will destroy any cancer cells. -- N.H.

ANSWER: Astaxanthin is a naturally occurring pigment related to vitamin A that was first isolated from a lobster in 1938. It indeed has both anti-inflammatory and antioxidant properties. It has been used as a coloring agent in salmon and is also naturally found in salmon. Most astaxanthin sold commercially is synthesized from petroleum products.

As a supplement, astaxanthin has been best studied to treat and prevent skin damage from aging. Multiple small studies have shown that it can improve skin appearance and function when used orally or topically. There is some evidence it can reduce DNA damage from ultraviolet light.

The ability to reduce the type of damage that may ultimately lead to skin

To Your Good Health

By Keith Roach, M.D.

cancer is a far cry from the ability to "destroy any cancer cell." There is no secret or hidden cure to cancer.

The Food and Drug Administration categorizes astaxanthin "generally regarded as safe." As I have often said, since supplements are not tightly regulated in the United States, you must rely on the manufacturer providing you with what they say they are, and there have been many, many instances where that has not been the case (in general, not about astaxanthin in particular).

Being conservative, I would say this supplement has potential, but I can't recommend it until it has been better studied.

DEAR DR. ROACH: My hair is falling out. What can be done about it? I take biotin and saw palmetto, but it hasn't stopped the hair loss. The older a lady gets, the more the hair falls out! --L.

ANSWER: I have learned not to underestimate the psychological effects of hair loss in women. Female pattern hair loss is a common problem affecting older women. The diagnosis can be made for certain by your regular doctor or a dermatologist after an exam. The most common pattern is thinning of the hair, often initially in the midline and worse on the top of the scalp (vertex). There are other causes of hair loss, so it is important to get a correct diagnosis in order to choose the right treatment.

I have not seen much success with over-the-counter supplements. Topical minoxidil (Rogaine) is the most common treatment, but I have started to try very low-dose oral minoxidil in some of my women patients. Spironolactone (a blood pressure medicine that also blocks testosterone receptors) and finasteride (used in men both for enlarged prostate and for male pattern hair loss) are also used by experts in women. It takes months to see if these are working.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu or send mail to 628 Virginia Dr., Orlando, FL 32803.

Auto repair shop takes advantage

Dear Heloise: Last week, I went to an auto repair shop to have them check why my engine light was on. They checked it over and gave me a whole list of problems that they said needed to be repaired, totaling close to $1,200. I thought it was strange, because my car was only 14 months old.

I took it to a different auto repair shop, and the mechanic told me my gas tank cap was loose, and that was all. The car was just fine after he tightened the cap again. No more engine light!

Why is it that so many repair places think if a woman walks in, it's perfectly acceptable to lie or abuse her trust? I'll never again set foot in the shop that wanted to charge me $1,200, but will be a loyal patron of the second shop that didn't try to take unfair advantage of me.

I guess some people never heard of the old rule: "If you like something, you'll probably tell several of your friends. If you don't, you'll tell everyone you know or meet." People talk, and once you've earned a bad reputation in business, it's difficult -- if not impossible -- to recover. No one wants to do business with someone they can't trust. -- Peggy W., Lima, Ohio

Hints from Heloise

By Heloise

Peggy, I get letters all the time from women with the same complaint about auto repair shops. No matter how much money a shop makes by talking someone into costly repairs, they lose the trust and respect they might have had if they had dealt with a client fairly. All future business will go to another shop who respected their clients and were honest with them.

It's always wise to check with the Better Business Bureau, especially if you believe there is something wrong with the service or product you've received. Ask friends who they go to for auto repair assistance and whether or not they were happy with the results. -- Heloise

FAST FACTS
Got 5 to 10 minutes before you leave for work? That's just enough time to:
■ Wipe down the kitchen countertop.
■ Bag the trash and take it out to the trash can.
■ Put away make-up on your bathroom counter.

■ Go through your pockets or purse to make certain you have everything you need.

THE NIGHT BEFORE

Dear Heloise: In the morning, I usually have so many last minute things to do and a number of items to take with me to work that one, or sometimes two, items were left at home by mistake. I finally took the advice you wrote a while back to another faithful reader: I put everything in the car the night before. No more cell phone left on the kitchen counter, no daily schedule soaked in milk on the breakfast table, and my car keys are set on the dashboard. The car is safely in the garage. This has made my mornings a lot less stressful. -- Peter H., Meriden, Connecticut
