Serving Emmet County and the surrounding communities!

THURSDAY, AUGUST 31, 2023

Vol. 152, No. 49

Inside:

Introducing ELC's new teachers for 2023-24 school year

Pages 2A

Inside:

ELC volleyball wins first tournament of 2023

Page 1B

LOCAL MAN ASKS DESANTIS MILLION-DOLLAR QUESTION

Estherville, asked Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis, currently second in the polls behind former president Trump for the GOP nomination, why he, a young, second-time general election voter, should vote for DeSantis during the candidate's retail stop in Estherville on Friday

BY AMY H. PETERSON

Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis, Republican candidate for president, stopped in Emmet County Friday on a tour sponsored by his political action committee (PAC), Never Back Down. The Never Back Down bus tour has cris-crossed Iowa and New Hampshire ahead of the upcoming caucuses and primaries. Iowa's Republican caucus is scheduled for Jan. 15, 2024. DeSantis made a retail stop at J&J Ag Solutions in Estherville

Lydia Hall, communications director for Never Back Down, told the Estherville News the team had not anticipated so many people would fill the shop. They skipped the tour of the store and went right to remarks by DeSantis after he shook hands and took selfies late Friday afternoon.

Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis met with Emmet County and area residents at J&J Ag Solutions Friday afternoon.

Turn to DESANTIS, Page 3A

Photo by Amy H. Peterson

Welcome to the third article in a three-part series about how local people view assets and challenges in this community. For this week, we asked local leader Jason Bendixen and local residents Christina Zufall and Shawna Wille to tell their stories of community and share their perspectives.

This series asks members of the Emmet County community several questions that were included on the Survey of Rural Towns this year: what are the assets you see in Emmet County? What are the challenges facing Emmet County? Do you feel in 10 years that Emmet County will be better off or worse off? In this series, we will include several individuals' stories and perspectives each week over the next several weeks, along with a photograph of the person. In September, we interview business owners, influencers, and community volunteers about the present and future of the community in a second series called Rural Revelations. If you would like to be part of the series, contact Amy H. Peterson at 712-330-2593 or apeterson@esthervillenews.net, or call the newspaper office at 712-362-2622.

New business owner sees future of Estherville as bright as the sun

Jason Bendixen, Sun City Spa

Bendixen left Jason Estherville as a young person, traveled the nation, may have sown a wild oat, then returned to Estherville to work at Jacobson-Westergard.

"When I was working at Jacobson-Westergard, I was mostly involved with things going on with the company and didn't really look at what was outside of that," Bendixen said. As the Estherville News reported earlier this summer, Bendixen has opened Sun City Spa with his wife, Sara as majority owner and Jason managing the shop. Bendixen said the wealth of support for entrepreneurs and businesses is one of Estherville's many assets.

"The grant programs available here are amazing. We spent $20,000 plus improving the inside of Sun City and we got $10,000 back. They had the same thing for an exterior facade grant, and one for home Lexie exteriors. (Ruter, Estherville Area Chamber Director and Economic Development Director) and Penny (Clayton, Estherville city administrator) are great at finding money. They're continuously working for the people of the community," Bendixen

Earlier this month, Bendixen joined the first class of Lead the 'Ville, a comprehensive educational program in which 12 participants build a leadership network among current and emerging leaders, learn about community issues, and become familiar with the rewards of serving one's community, as well as practicing leadership skills. The first of nine sessions took place just over two weeks

Bendixen said the key is placing good people in the right leadership positions to make things happen. Those leaders already exist in a plethora of organizations Bendixen listed as assets to the community: Iowa Lakes Community College, Avera Holy Family Hospital and Avera Medical Group Clinic, the new swimming pool and splash pad, and organizations committed to improving the community: Rotary Club, Kiwanis, Knights of Columbus, WA-TAN-YE, Girl Scouts, 4-H, and FFA among them.

"Emmet County Extension is another one-they're a heck of a resource that very few people utilize," Bendixen said.

Bendixen also said after experiencing the east and west coasts and living in Sioux Falls, that safety is a strength of living in Emmet County.

"You feel safe, you know? We have one of the best police departments and fire departments and emergency medical around. Especially with our emergency management leadership, I feel very safe, and I think most people do,"

Turn to COMMUNI-TEA, Page 9A

IUB pipeline hearings continue

CO2 hearings taking place in Fort Dodge

> BY AMY H. PETERSON STAFF WRITER

There are two sides to the continuing issue of CO2 pipelines in Iowa: opponents say CO2 pipelines are risky for surrounding communities, intrusive to landowners not only in the construction phase but also for years afterward in tile destruction and crop-growing disruption, and more negative than positive. Supporters say transporting CO2 from ethanol plants to faraway underground storage will provide financial security to the ethanol industry. Today marks Day 8 of the Summit Carbon Solutions permit hearing in front of the Iowa Utilities Board in Fort Dodge. The state of Iowa accounts for more than one-third of Summit's planned 700 miles of pipeline that would connect 13 ethanol

plants across the state.

The Cardiff Events Center is the site of the hearings that could last weeks or even months. The hearings had been scheduled to begin in October and were more recently moved up to the August date.

Gov. Kim Reynolds has appointed all three members of the IUB: Erik Heiland, Joshua Byrnes, and Sarah Martz. The format is similar to a trial held by a judge, with no citizen's jury but the three board members serving as the judicial panel.

Members of the public are allowed to attend the hearings in person, but there are numerous rules, including no food or drink, including water bottles, no standing, and law enforcement dogs and metal detectors inspect each entrant to the event center. No attendee may bring a phone, laptop or any other electronics - not even pen and paper to take

addition to law Turn to HEARING, Page 3A

Welcome back to school

Teacher Nick Hogan, right, was one of the teachers and community members who greeted Estherville Lincoln Central Middle School students on the first day of school last Thursday Aug. 24. Middle school students were greeted with the school song as played by the high school band and the ELC mascot made an appearance.

Photo submitted

Supervisors to meet with architect to cut Courthouse addition costs

BY MICHAEL TIDEMANN

The Emmet County Board of Supervisors at their Tuesday, Aug. 29 meeting set a date of 2 p.m. Sept 6 to have Supervisors Jeff Quastad and John Pluth meet with CMBA Architects of Spencer to find a way to cut costs on what the county hoped would be a $1.4million west addition to the Courthouse.

With Christensen Construction of Estherville providing the only bid of $1.9 million, $500,000 over the original project estimate, the supervisors are looking for a way to cut costs. Quastad said Steve Christensen of Christensen Construction had found ways to cut $407,800 from the cost of the building originally intended to provide better Courthouse handicap access. The county has $1.4 million in American Rescue Plan act money for the project. The county's Local Option Sales and Services Tax would be one way to make up the $100,000 shortfall.

With significant chances, the project would have to be rebid. Some of the cost-cutting suggestions include:

- Using existing Courthouse gas lines and sanitary sewer instead of installing new lines.
- Incorporating existing building footings.
- Substituting roof insulation and eliminating spray foam. • Use textured panels instead
- of masonry. Eliminate decorative

- Shorten windows.
- · Eliminate the southwest canopy.

Quastad questioned elim-

• Shorten walls.

• Eliminate blinds.

inating spray foam and the columns and City of Estherville Administrator Penny Clayton, present at the meeting, said the city has new commercial building standards and the Estherville City Council would have to review the revised plans. Supervisor Lisa Hansen said she would want the west addition facing to match the existing brick exterior, and Supervisor Tim Schumacher agreed. "I'm not ready to throw everything out just because of a budget requirement."

Turn to COUNTY, Page 3A

SEE PAGE 10A

LABOR DAY

ONE OF OUR BIGGEST SALES OF THE YEAR!

Good morning!

Thank you for subscribing to the Estherville News

For delivery of the Estherville News, call 712-362-2622 or go online to www.esthervillenews.net

