WELLMAN

On Valentine's Day, Erin Campbell received a special gift: an employment offer from the Cedar Rapids Public Library. And she accepted it.

For the Director of the Wellman-Scofield Public Library, the opportunity to move away from her hometown is bittersweet.

"I'm very conflicted," she said Wednesday, just two days before her final day at the library on March 10. "It was definitely a huge decision. And yeah, I feel very sad, but also excited to start this new chapter.'

Campbell's departure occurs just as the library will begin a significant construction project that will double its space, an ambition the library has had for years finally brought to fruition under Campbell's direction. The SEE DIRECTOR | PAGE 8A winning of a $632,860 grant from the Washington County Riverboat Foundation last fall allowed the library to initiate construction this spring.

"I'm 100% confident that [the expansion] is in great hands," Campbell said. "I wouldn't be leaving if I didn't know it was going to be in good hands and was going to be executed in the way that I thought

Despite opposition from residents, Supervisors approve Windham Village plan

BY PAUL D. BOWKER The News

IOWA CITY

Disagreements on a Johnson County plan for Windham Village boiled down to one final emotional meeting March 8.

"We don't want any-thing," said Judd Lawler, who led a presentation of a group of Windham Village residents at the Board of Supervisors formal voting session. "We just want to be left alone."

Those words began an hour-long discussion featuring comments from multiple Windham Village residents, Republican State Senator Dawn Driscoll, county staff and supervisors.

The meeting, during which county supervisors voted 4-0 to install an official village development plan and vision statement for Windham, concluded a process that began with meetings at Renee's Roadhouse in Windham Village last summer.

Village plans help guide supervisors and members of the county's Planning & Zoning Commission through any development requests that come before the boards, but village residents stood in opposition to a plan over those many months. More than 200 signed a petition opposing the plan and a Dec. 8 board meeting was so dramatic that a decision on the plan was delayed until last week's meeting so that village residents and county staff could meet in an attempt to reach a compromise.

Windham was the last of nine villages targeted for a county plan, following other areas including Frytown, Joetown, Sharon Center and River Junction.

"There are evolving needs," said village resident Pat Mougin. "We just fail to see why we are targeted for that, to have some evolvement there.'

"It's clear in the beginning that we knew you weren't going to change your mind," Brenda Mougin said. "You get to speak after we are done. We have to

The library's Collection Development policy on the Freedom to Read states:

The freedom to read is essential to our democracy. It is continuously under attack. Private groups and public authorities in various parts of the country are working to remove or limit access to reading materials, to censor content in schools, to label 'controversial' views, to dis-tribute lists of 'objectionable' books or authors, and to purge libraries. These actions apparently rise from a view that our national tradition of free expression is no longer valid; that censorship and suppression are needed to counter threats to safety or national security, as well as avoid the subversion of politics and the

The library director noticed it when perusing "Booklist," a book review magazine published by the American Library Association (ALA). The book had won a 2020 ALA Alex Award and was a 2020 Stonewall-Israel Fishman Non-Fiction Award Honor Book. In "Booklist" it had a starred review, and it was a best-seller.

Finally available in a special edition hardcover rather than a more fragile paperback, he decided to purchase it for the collection.

Board names new county attorney

It was all numbers at the Washington County Supervisors special meeting Saturday that, after one failed motion, one defeated one, and one final motion that passed 3-2, Nathan Repp was selected to be new Washington County Attorney. He will succeed John Gish who left in January to lead a team in the Iowa Attorney General's office. Repp, who is senior assistant county attorney for Scott County, was notified shortly after the special session and reportedly accepted the offer.

The meeting just met the 40-day deadline for naming a replacement and had all five supervisors in attendance, including Stan Stoops, who had had surgery, joining via telephone conference call.

In the public comment segment at the meeting's opening, there were several residents who recommended Shane Mc-Church, Kalona, a current assistant county attorney for Washington County.

During the approximate 50-minute session, board members reviewed the interviews and resumes of the three candidates with Jack Seward Jr., making the first motion to select Zachary Miller of Washington, a staffer with the attorney general's office. The motion failed for lack of a second.

Following further discussion, a motion was made to select McChurch but it was defeated in a 2-3 vote with board Chairman Bob Yoder and supervisor Richard Young in fa-

At that time, Repp had stated that Scott County has one of the highest number of cases in the state and that he has been involved with 50 to 70 jury trials.

The motion to select Repp passed 3-2 with Yoder and Under Iowa code, voters have 14 days to petition for a special election which must have signatures numbering at least 10 percent of the total votes cast in the last election, November 6, 2022. At that time, votes totaled 8,874.

If there is no request for a special election, Repp likely will be sworn into office within a few weeks, officials said.

Purina donation supports PAWS & More's efforts to construct new facility

Nestlé Purina PetCare announced a $20,000 donation to help PAWS & More fund the construction of a new facility to serve pets and residents in Washington and several surrounding communities.

PAWS & More is the animal control agency for Washington County, the city of Washington and many surrounding Iowa communities including Henry, Keokuk and Louisa counties. Since opening in 1978, the organization has provided animals with shelter and compassionate care, including control and placement for stray animals as well as a spay/neuter program with a major impact on feral cats.

The existing PAWS & More facility has deteriorated to the point that it can no longer be repaired. The new facility will enhance the organization's operations by adding outdoor play space for animals, garage access for van parking and additional storage.

"Our team in Clinton has donated Purina pet food to PAWS & More for some time, and we're more than willing to step up in this instance to help bring a new facility to life," said Justin Wilkinson, factory manager of the Purina manufacturing facility in Clinton. "The new building will enhance PAWS & More's ability to positively impact pets and residents in several counties in southeast Iowa. We're so grateful for they all do."

The donation is being granted through the Purina Trust Fund, established by Purina founder William H. Danforth to provide critical support to important community causes. The company is investing more than $1 million in its communities this year through several capital and capacity-building grants to support local nonprofit organizations. Over the past five years, Purina has contributed more than $150 million towards organizations that bring, and keep, people and pets together, as well as those who help our communities and environments thrive.

Huskies show off at state speech competition

BY BRENDAN SCHNOEBELEN

The News ELDRIDGE

THE NEWS

Hundreds of students from all around southeast Iowa packed "The Pit" inside of North Scott High School in Eldridge, on Saturday, March 11 for the Southeast Iowa Individual State Speech Competition. Coming off a record-tying day just two weeks prior in Mount Vernon, the Highland Huskies looked to display their best performances of the individual speech season.

The leadoff performer for Highland was junior Gwen Piette in the Storytelling category, reading "Betty Bunny Loves Chocolate Cake." Piette had quite the audience for the performance and received an abundance of laughter for her strong use of character voices and expressions while telling her story.

Next up for the Huskies was another junior, Allyana Pokorny, in the Expository Address category, presenting on the Slovakian Kroj. Pokorny donned her own personal kroj as she presented to a panel of judges about her outfit, which is an essential item of her Czechoslovakian heritage.

After a lengthy break between performances, the Huskies returned in the afternoon in a big way, starting with talented freshman Greta Piette in the Solo Musical Theater category. Piette sang "Watch What Happens" from the musical Newsies.

After stretching her vocal cords, Piette returned in her second event later that afternoon to perform in the Acting category. The freshman per-formed "Rather Be a Man," which was the second of Highland's two Acting performances on the day.

The first of Highland's two Acting performances came with junior Rayne Foley. Foley performed "Please Don't Marry Me" in the Acting category, and also performed "Organization of Introverts Against Public Speaking" in the After Dinner Speaking category.

The final performer Highland advanced to state was senior Brendan Schnoebelen in the Radio News Announcing category. The senior was no stranger to the excitement of state individual speech, as it was his 4th (and final) time at state individual competition.

Ratings were tabulated throughout the entire day at North Scott, and Highland received rave reviews. Receiving an overall II in their events were Rayne Foley and Greta Piette in Acting, and Allyana Pokorny in Expository Address. Receiving an overall I in their events were Rayne Foley in After Dinner Speaking, Brendan Schnoebelen in Radio News Announcing, Greta Piette in Solo Musical Theater, and Gwen Piette in Storytelling

Two individuals for the Huskies had their ratings stand out. The first was Brendan Schnoebelen in Radio News Announcing, and the second was Greta Piette in Solo Musical Theater. Both individuals received I ratings from each of their three judges, showing not just excellence in their craft, but all of the hard work that went into creating such a strong performance.

When asked how she manages both a busy academic and speech life, Piette responded, 'It is definitely a struggle to balance academics and speech, but it [the result] is definitely worth it." When asked about her Solo Musical Theater performance, Piette said she was 'very proud" of her efforts.

Head Coach Jayme Kallaus knew it was going to be an exciting day for everyone to show what they were made of, and she saw improvements in many of her performances.

"I saw Ally [Pokorny] revamp her programming, which made it more effective, interesting, and engaging for the audience. I have seen Greta [Piette] blow things out of the water as a freshman coming in and going back-to-back state for both group and individual, and again, making modifications to her program, too, that I felt made it a lot more engaging for the audience. Really, honestly, everybody has taken their performance to the next level," she said.

In a year where the Huskies tied a school record for the most performances advancing to state individual competition, Coach Kallaus noted that not just her team had big goals, but she did too.

"Our goals were to have great performances, which I feel that we did. Obviously, the goal is to get to All-State, but my goal for this team is for them to be happy with their performances," she said.

Kallaus hinted at the All-State festival held on the campus of the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls. In order for a performance to qualify for All-State, the performance must receive at least two nominations from the three-judge panel at state competition. Brendan Schnoebelen advanced to All-State last season for Radio News Announcing.

OPINION

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Republicans should wake up too, Sen. Ernst

Senator Joni Ernst and the Republican caucus have learned a new word, 'woke,' and by golly they're gonna use it.

In her recent piece in The Kalona News she used it five times in reference to President Biden. She complained that Biden created a rule that allowed financial institutions to invest in "woke" corporations instead of going for the absolute top dollar. Presumably the corporation could be slaughtering baby seals with clubs and Senator Ernst would be fine with it.

There is absolutely nothing wrong with investing in socially and environmentally conscious companies. I guess it would be woke to criticize Jared Kushner for obtaining a 2 billion dollar loan from Saudi Arabia shortly after publicly defending the Crown Prince who ordered the dismemberment of Jamal Khashoggi for criticizing the Saudi government in the Washington Post. Show me the money baby!

And I guess it would also be woke to notice that in the defamation trial of Dominion voting machines vs Fox News, texts, phone calls and emails all show that from Tucker and the rest on up to company head Rupert Murdoch, they all knew Trump LOST but knowingly gave inveterate liars and conspiracists a platform on the nation's #1 cable news shows.

Immediately after the election they tried telling the truth, that Trump LOST, but discovered they were losing viewers. So they brought back the lies and misinformation that still goes on today. Show me the money baby!

They value money and power more than their own integrity. And chances are, if you keep the channel tuned to Fox, you have never even heard about how you were lied to.

And it would no doubt be woke to mention that Fox concluded that the Republican base preferred, even demanded, to hear the lies.

With respect, Senator Ernst, please wake up!

To ensure transparency, government notices should continue to be published by independent newspapers, not a government-controlled website

Some members of the Iowa Senate do not think that public notices published in newspapers remain relevant and necessary. A bill filed in the newly formed Technology Committee just over a week ago moved through committee in two days and last week moved through the Ways & Means Committee in one day. Senate File 546 would result in removing a major component of government transparency. This legislation would require legal notices to be posted on a website controlled by the very government legal notices are designed to oversee and notices would not be required to published in a local newspaper.

This is the wrong move today, tomorrow and for the future. Government transparency is more important than ever. In truth it is critical.

While The News and other Iowa newspapers have an economic interest in seeing that the public notice publishing requirement remains, the issue goes far beyond a few dollars. Maintaining the legal requirement to publish government actions and meetings in local newspapers is crucial for ensuring accountability and keeping the public informed of important information that affects people's lives. And it is the job of our local newspapers to serve as a check on government, not the government to check itself.

The proposed savings under the guise of modernization would come at a very high cost to Iowa's communities.

While many people now browse digital platforms for information - including thenews-ia.com – not everyone has access to the internet or the technological know-how to navigate online platforms. And the staggering amount of information available online. representing every viewpoint. degree of accuracy, hidden agendas and motivations from every philosophy and side of the political spectrum, makes it more and more likely public notices posted online would be lost among the chaff. Worse, they may be vulnerable to manipulation or not easily accessible through search algorithms.

By publishing public notices in newspapers, government bodies can ensure that critical information is available to everyone in a format that has stood the test of time for accuracy and accessibility. It requires governments provide timely information for citizens to participate in their government. The notices are appearing in the communities in or very near where the decisions are made. Public notices cover a range of activities - bids and leads for public projects, minutes from government meetings, foreclosures, petitions, election information, water quality reports and other information that is important to citizens and vibrant communities.

The basis for public notices published in newspapers remains as important as ever:

• Requiring an independent, third-party to publish the notices in accordance with the law helps prevent government officials from hiding information they prefer the public not to see. The government cannot be in charge of holding itself responsible. A public notice must be published in a forum independent of the government. As an independent and neutral third party, a newspaper has an economic and civic interest in ensuring that the notice delivery requirements are followed. • Publishing the notice in a newspaper ensures that the information is widely accessible to the public. Unlike social media or other online platforms, newspapers are trusted sources of information that are available to everyone, regardless of whether or not they have access to the internet or social media accounts. This helps to ensure that all members of the public have an equal opportunity to be informed and involved in government decision-making.

• A public notice must be archived in a secure and publicly available format. Newspapers have always fulfilled this requirement because a public notice published in a newspaper is already archivable and accessible. This is particularly important for notices that contain information about government decisions and actions that impact individuals and communities for years to come. Requiring governmental bodies to publish legal notices in newspapers ensures that this information is always accessible.

• The public must be able to verify that a legal notice is not altered after being published. In a newspaper notice, an affidavit is provided by the publisher, which can be used in an evidentiary proceeding to demonstrate that a true copy was published as well as the exact wording that was used. Legal notices published in newspapers are subject to public scrutiny and can be easily monitored by journalists or concerned citizens. This guarantees that governmental bodorg, a site run by newspapers at no additional cost to government or taxpayers. It is available for those who prefer accessing an electronic version.

There may be parts of the country where newspaper readership is receding, but not in Iowa. Iowa has 241 community newspapers with one or more newspapers in every county. Market research conducted in 2022 showed 84% of Iowa adults read local print or digital newspapers. And newspaper readers are more engaged in their community. Newspapers reach 93% of Iowans who report, "I feel that I have a responsibility to help share the future of my community.'

It is true that newspapers charge a nominal fee, set by Iowa law, for publishing legal notices. This is a very small price for freedom, as it is typically under 1% of any government body's spending. All Iowans should demand more scrutiny of government affairs, never less.

While the bill does not prohibit local government bodies from publishing public notices in newspapers, it removes the current requirement for doing so. Removing the legal requirement would most certainly result in local governments discontinuing all public notice publications in their local newspapers. But the long-term costs communities and citizens would pay far exceed the price paid by government bodies to publish legal notices in newspapers. We believe that requiring governmental bodies to continue publishing legal notices in local newspapers is crucial for ensuring transparency, accountability, and accessibility in government decision-making. Newspapers – especially Iowa newspapers – remain a trusted source of information that is widely accessible and easily searchable.

ies are held accountable and acting in the best interests of their constituents.

Community newspapers have established relationships with readers and have a deep understanding of the issues and concerns that matter most to them. When public notices appear in newspapers, government bodies can tap into these relationships.

 Newspapers have a long history of serving as watchdogs for their communities, holding local officials accountable and shining light on issues that might otherwise go unnoticed. By requiring government bodies to publish public notices in newspapers, we are ensuring that these important watchdog functions are preserved and that the public has access to information that might otherwise be hidden from view.

 Many newspapers also publish the public notices on their websites and nearly all public notices across the state are also uploaded to a centralized website at iowanotices.

As a newspaper, we strongly urge Iowa's senators to vote "no" on this short-sighted bill. As should all Iowans.

an adopted son, Timothy Philip. She enjoyed being a wife, mother, and Oma to her grandchildren. She and Achim traveled to Germany to visit his relatives and enjoyed traveling to Hawaii, Alaska, Israel and trips home to Iowa and family.

Velma was married to Robert Burnham Octo.4, 2008, and resided in Grinnell. She was a member of the Grinnell Friends Church. Kevin left on Friday night, so it was just me and the three kids. I made a little tea party for them—I had done this one night for Abigail and Jennifer when they had been overnight. It seems like they always have a lot of fun with it. They seem to eat a lot more that way, as well.

I always find their conversation so funny! One night when I had a few of the children, they were all sitting on top of the vent with water. I told them not to dump any of their water down there because it could start a fire. It couldn't have, but I just wanted to prevent them from dumping water down there. T.J. accidentally dumped a little bit of his down there and it made a sizzling noise because it hit the stove. Jennifer jumped up so fast and ran away from it as fast as she could and was saying, "I can hear the smoke!" Then Abigail told her, Jenny, you can't actually hear the smoke but you can smell it." Ha, it was cute! Kaitlyn and Jennifer were telling Abigail that tea is the same thing as coffee, and Abigail said no. tea and coffee are different. So Abigail wanted to find out who was right, so she came to ask me, and I told her that they are two different

Last Wednesday, my brother Kevin came to stay overnight. I sure enjoyed his company! We are both a little scared of stink bugs, so we sure had an adventure trying to kill one. I have two little balls in my house that the children always play with when they come over—Kevin had one and I had the other, and we were throwing them at the stink bug until I finally hit it. Our second mission was to find them, because they had a way of disappearing after they dropped. Kevin ended up staying overnight again on Thursday night.

On Friday morning, sister Susan dropped off Jennifer and Isaiah with me. She and Ervin, along with their two boys Ryan and Curtis, went to Ervin's dad and mom overnight, and they only had room for two children 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup light corn syrup 1 teaspoon vinegar 1 teaspoon vanilla 5 quarts popped corn Butter sides of saucepan. In it, combine sugar, water, salt, syrup, and vinegar. Cook to hard ball stage (250 degrees). Stir in vanilla. Slowly pour over popped corn in a large bowl, stirring just to mix well. Butter hands lightly; shape balls. Lay on a flat surface to cool. Makes 15 to 20 balls.

Washington Board moves forward with Encite

BY MARY ZIELINSKI The News

WASHINGTON

Although they tabled action to next week, the Washington County Supervisors Tuesday expect to have a contract this spring with Washington-based Encite Architecture & Design to remodel the county-owned Orchard Hill Complex to accommodate county administrative offices. The contract would be similar to ones the county has had with Carl A. Nelson who, due to other commitments, did not have someone immediately available to start on the project.

During the public comment segment, which starts business for all board meetings, Karen Bates Chabal, a local business owner, voiced concerns about moving county administrative services out of the downtown city to the edge of town and its impact on the local economy. She asked that the board take another look at the space in the Federation Bank Building. The building was offered to the county for $800,000 late last year.

The proposed contract would sit in silence and listen to you twist our words."

"I'm very proud of the community and how they've handled it," said Sally Attwood, a property owner in Windham. 'It has been a waste of time, and in my opinion, it has all been very shameful. Just shameful.3

Supervisor Royceann Porter had an issue with the verbal attacks on the board.

'I don't like it when you say we don't listen to you because we have to make decisions,' Porter said. "We do. We listen. It's not easy."

The issue attracted the attention of Driscoll, a state senator from Williamsburg who represented District 38 from 2021-2023 and now represents District 46.

'We fight for rural representation all the time," she said. "These residents have banded together and I feel have done a phenomenal job of showing their passion for preserving their historic Windham."

Once the verbal jarring was over, the board opted for a village plan using a smaller version of the village boundary than proposed by county staff. The alternate boundary, covering about 93 acres and presented by the Windham Village group, was put into a motion by Supervisor Rod Sullivan along with a caveat that heavy manufacturing development not be allowed. The staff's plan covered 196 acres.

A third plan, presented by Lawler, proposed the boundary follow Windham's much smaller area of the village's original plat.

Josh Busard, Director of Johnson County Planning. Development and Sustainability, said the village plan isn't meant to produce development, but instead govern it.

'It doesn't mean that growth is going to happen immediately," Busard said. "The plan, I think, is an opportunity for residents to weigh in, to be able to direct any future development.

What "Gender Queer" and "Heather Has Two Mommies" have in common is LGBTQIA+ content, which, as Sherping notes, "has been a hot-button issue."

"When people say that it's not good for them, and it's therefore not good for the community, it contributes to forms of erasure," Sherping notes. "Not everybody is the same. We don't live in a homogenous community. By removing the material, even if you don't know somebody who needs it, that doesn't mean that person doesn't exist. It's important for them to have representation just as everyone else does. I think that point is important to reiterate, especially when we're considering queer or LGBTQ materials."

local ones that now follow site judicial boundaries, increasing the number of counties in a region. It is a move that "has taken away local control," something that has also removed any local oversight, "that . . .the control is now with Des Moines bureaucrats with no accountability to local government." Officially, costs of providing services will be reimbursed by the state, in effect making them "state employees". The proposed law would affect counties of 125,000 population or more. Johnson County's five supervisors have been elected via at-large positions in the past, including in the November 2022 election, but the law would divide Johnson County into five districts of equal population. Voters would select just one supervisor representing the district in which a voter resides.

"It'll be interesting to see how that lays out," Johnson County Chair Lisa Green-Douglass said. "Counties should be able to determine and the people within those counties should be able to determine how their board of supervisors is elected. This is now being dictated to us from above."

The other counties falling under what is known as Plan 3 are Scott, Black Hawk, Linn and Polk.

When it comes to political material, he looks to balance the liberal with the conservative, although it may not always look that way.

"This is actually a story from a previous director, but I've encountered similar things," he begins, telling the story of a patron who asked why the library was only buying liberal books. The director looked at the new nonfiction shelf, which did seem to slant left. The director then did a little research to find out how this could have happened.

Most attempts at suppression rest on a denial of the fundamental premise of democracy: that the ordinary individual, by exercising critical judgement, will select the good and reject the bad. Year's second legislative briefing draws smaller crowd

BY CHERYL ALLEN The News

WASHINGTON

State Senator Dawn Driscoll and State Representative Heather Hora joined interested constituents at Halcyon House in Washington on March 10 for their second legislative briefing of the year. The briefings are hosted by the Washington Chamber of Commerce, a nonpartisan organization.

A smaller crowd and cooler emotions characterized this event, in contrast to the previous briefing held in Kalona on Feb. 10.

Sen. Driscoll opened the event by highlighting two bills she introduced that made progress this week.

She was especially proud that her Senate File 443, first introduced in 2017, went to the Senate floor. The bill requires that "if you have a population of 125,000 or more, in order to run for a County Supervisor, you must reside in the district, and you will be voted on by the district." This would allow for someone from Hills or Lone Tree to "have a seat at the table" on the Johnson County Board of Supervisors, for example.

"It actually went through the Senate with bipartisan support," she said. "I feel like it's especially important for rural Iowa to have that ag voice be heard," she added.

The other bill put forward by Driscoll that passed the Senate unanimously was Senate File 84, which provides minimum penalties for acts relating to the sexual exploitation of a minor.

Rep. Hora briefed the gathering on what has been happening in the House.

"This week in the Iowa House has been a great week for championing children," she said. "We've passed prohibition on gender procedures on children... Transition surgeries and hormone therapy will not be allowed, and that passed the Senate. We actually took the Senate file up in the House, passed it, and that is ready for the governor's signature."

"There will be no gender identity or sexual orientation taught kindergarten through sixth grade," she said. "And then we passed the parental/ guardian consent for gender identity at school. So those are some of the things that we passed out of education [committee] this week to protect our children. We're very proud of that."

Once open for public comment, a variety of concerns surfaced from the attendees; however, the two issues that came up more than once were the public notice bill and the fact that no legislative briefings were held on Saturdays.

Senate File 480 was approved by an Iowa Senate committee on March 8; it would create a new state website for schools, cities, and other entities to publish public notices. Presently publication of such notices is required to occur in newspapers.

Willie Stone, Superintendent of the Washington Community School District, was the first to bring the bill up and noted his support of it.

"That will be a big one for us. This brings us up to our current reality or mode of how we do things, being able to post things online instead of having to post them through the paper," he said.

Rep. Hora responded, "We believe that it's important to keep that in the newspaper because there's still a large part of our society that gets their information from the newspaper. I don't think there's anything that will prevent it from being posted online. But the newspaper is an important part of our communities, so I think that won't go anywhere in the House, I believe."

Sen. Driscoll remarked, "I know that our technology chairman – she was the one who was running the bill – she's just passionate about keeping up with the times. That's a big thing for her, to be able to have that access being on the internet, as well as in the newspapers."

Matt Bryant, publisher of the Southeast Iowa Union as well as other newspapers, spoke out against the bill.

"Most people are online, but not everybody is online. And even if they are online, the Iowa Newspaper Association already puts all public no-tices online," he said, noting that adding another government division to track online public notices is the opposite of streamlining government, which the governor aims to do. "These papers also provide a neutral third party, instead of the government monitoring the government," he continued. "You can't alter a newspaper public notice once it's in the papers," he added, indicating that that may be possible online.

"I will always advocate on the side of newspapers," Rep. Hora said.

Ron Slechta, publisher of The News, also spoke out against the bill.

"I just want to thank you for being supportive of newspapers. I'm passionate about keeping legals in newspapers," he said before reiterating some of the points made by Bryant. "Also, we have 2000 subscribers, many of whom don't have access to the internet."

Millie Youngquist, Washington City Council member and Mayor Pro Tem, also mentioned the bill.

"I was going to speak on the publication bill, too. It would save the city money, but I questioned whether the public accessibility and transparency would be there if it weren't in the paper," she said. "So I'm happy to hear some of the other comments that were made today."

The desire for a legislative briefing to be held on a Saturday in addition to the three Friday briefings this spring was also brought up by multiple constituents. Not everyone can get away midday during the workweek, especially hourly workers, it was noted.

The legislators expressed their open availability for phone and email conversations, but both held firm on giving their Saturdays to their families and other commitments.

The next legislative briefing will be held on Friday, April 14 from 11:30 a.m. - 2 p.m. at Washington County Hospital & Clinics, 400 E. Polk St., Washington.

DISABILITIES AWARENESS MONTH

On Thursday, March 9, with representatives from the Iowa Developmental Disabilities Council, Iowa Vocational Rehabilitation Services, Disability Rights Iowa, and disability advocates from across the state looking on, the Iowa House of Representatives passed a resolution designating March as Disabilities Awareness Month—the first resolution of its kind in Iowa.

The resolution (HR9) received bipartisan support and was introduced by Rep. Art Staed (D) of Cedar Rapids and Rep. Thomas Jeneary (R) of Le-Mars. Several representatives took part in reading the resolution aloud in full to the House before passage. Rep. Steven Bradley (R) of Cascade, Rep. Timi Brown-Powers (D) of Waterloo, Rep. Ken Croken (D) of Davenport, Rep. Thomas Gerhold (R) of Atkins, Rep. Martin Graber (R) of Fort Madison, Rep. Heather Matson (D) of Ankeny, Rep. Josh Turek (D) of Council Bluffs, and Rep. Elizabeth Wilson (D) of Marion all read a section of the resolution and met with the advocates in the House chamber.

A similar resolution (SR4) has been introduced in the Iowa Senate by Sen. Izaah Knox (D) of Des Moines. Sen. Nate Boulton (D) of Des Moines introduced advocates to the Senate on Thursday, acknowledging recognition of March as Disabilities Awareness Month.

The purpose of the resolution is to bring awareness to the contributions of persons with disabilities as well as disability-related issues faced by Iowans across the state. Disability rights advocates asked legislators to ensure that the opinions of individuals with disabilities are heard during discussion on policies that could directly impact their lives, emphasizing that it's crucial to make decisions with people with disabilities—not for them.

Joni Ernst: For our daughters

Iowa has a celebrated history of exceptional girls' sports programs. We just saw the Iowa Hawkeyes women's basketball team take home their fifth Big Ten Tournament title, days after cheering on the high school girls competing in the state tournament. Last year, the Iowa High School Girls Athletic Union proudly sanctioned girls wrestling, opening up new opportunities for girls to be part of a team and recognized for their achievements. Title IX not only makes these events possible, but it guarantees an opportunity for our female athletes.

Whether it's growing as a young leader, winning a championship, or securing a scholarship to college, sports open doors for young girls. And folks, these doors shouldn't be slammed shut because of the progressive left's gender ideology

In May, President Biden intends to force institutions to allow biological males to share spaces with females and compete in women's sports. Girls' locker rooms have now become a battleground for the left, and parents continue to be iced out of this issue.

Thankfully, last year, Governor Reynolds protected girls' sports across our state, from elementary school all the way up to the collegiate level. At the federal level, I joined my colleagues in supporting The Protection of Women and Girls in Sports Act. Under this legislation, any athletic program that receives federal funds and permits a biological male to participate in competitions designated for women or girls would violate federal law.

Title IX is the law of the land, whether the far left likes it or not. The law was created to offer the same playing field to female athletes as their male counterparts - not to subject women to second place and the sidelines. Every time a girl steps onto the mat, court, field, or track she should know she has every opportunity to compete and win. In defense of our Iowa daughters and female athletes across the nation, I will not stop fighting to pass this commonsense bill.

The News LONE TREE

Students, faculty, and community members turned out at the Lone Tree school library for an input meeting as part of the district's superintendent search on March 8.

Split into five groups, they provided McPherson & Jacobson LLC. valuable information about their desired superintendent. There were lots of similarities between the groups.

They gave tons of positive feedback, like how the school is a hub of the community with great staff and students. Other positive things mentioned were the Wellness Center, PTO, staff training, and the preschool-12 format, to list a few.

The negatives were limited, like a concern for the roof and boiler systems, the budget, and some pushback against the school board who some perceived as "micromanaging" and needing "some direction" with a new superintendent.

Lone Tree input meeting aids in search

People generally want a financially literate superintendent who is visible and calm. They don't want someone who plans on making big changes right away. Some felt growth would be a challenge anyway.

After the input meetings, the board met with McPherson & Jacobson LLC. to help finalize many details about the superintendent search. The search party has confirmed that everything is perfectly on track.

tendent will close Mar. 21. The board will choose the semi-finalists on Mar. 29, holding semi-final interviews on Apr. 1 and final interviews on Apr. 5.

They used the start of this meeting to go over the input meeting results. Here, some important things were ironed out.

Some at the input meeting felt current superintendent, Kurt DeVore, does not attend enough school events. However, the board had pushback, confirming that DeVore is at every school event and is extremely visible, an aspect that will be hard to replace.

The school board will meet again on Mar. 22 at 6:30 p.m. for a regularly scheduled meeting in the school library, not pertaining to their superintendent search.

it would. I think it's going to turn out beautifully."

Replacing Campbell as Director is Carrie Geno, who currently serves as Assistant The library board Director. confirmed her appointment on March 7.

'It's not something that I originally thought that I was going to do," Geno said. "But I'm very excited to step into the role. I'm excited to see this expansion come to life and just see the library grow.'

As Campbell and Geno worked together on plans for the library's expansion, their shared vision makes for a more seamless transition.

"I played a role in writing the grant and have been part of working with the architects and all of that up to this point," Geno said. "So I feel very comfortable stepping in and continuing the project."

Geno's new role will see her move from part-time to fulltime, so patrons will see her more often at the library. She will also take on more executive responsibilities.

"It's going to be great. She'll do a wonderful job," Campbell says of her successor.

As for Campbell, her role at the Cedar Rapids Public Library will be as a Programming Specialist; she'll work with a team to plan all the programs, for all ages, at the library.

"I really love programming," she said. "That's one of my favorite things to do here.

"This has been my hometown forever, and it still will be," Campbell added, reflecting on her life in Wellman. "I'm just going somewhere else for a little while."

Those wishing to visit Campbell while enjoying the amenities of Cedar Rapids might congratulate her with a honey cinnamon latte. Those wishing to congratulate Geno here in Wellman might surprise her with a chocolate chai.

'It's going to be a new adventure," Geno says, "but I'm excited for it."

Wellman's aging water system needs both repair and replacement, city officials advised residents at a lightly attended public forum at the Parkside Recreation Center Monday.

Mayor Ryan Miller and City Administrator Kelly Litwiller led a slide show presentation detailing a planned $5.1 million upgrade to 13,500 ft. of the pipes that deliver the city's drinking water. That amounts to 25 percent of the city's lines.

The city's 100-year-old system is leaking water, significantly increasing its operational costs for both pumping water and treatment costs. In 2015, the city learned it was losing as much as 58% of the water it was sending from its plant. That implies the city was only billing residents for 42 per cent of the water it supplied.

Improved efficiencies, initiated in 2017, reduced the loss to 27% in 2022. But city officials say the goal for water loss should be roughly 10 per cent and the city can't achieve that without a major overhaul of its water lines.

The city is also in need of a reliable back-up system. It's main well is 70 years old and its back-up produces water that is incompatible with its current treatment system. When the city shut down its main well for repairs several years ago, water from the back-up well fouled the treatment system resulting in more costly repairs.

Of the 5.1 million, water main replacement and upgrades are budgeted for $3.5 million and a backup water source for $1.5 million. Options include drilling a new well and connecting to the Wapello Rural Water Association. City officials said the cost of drilling a new well and hooking into the rural water system are about the same.

Contracting with the Wappello Rural Water Association has several advantages. It essentially guarantees a future supply of sufficient, quality drinking water. And since it is regulated by the Department of Agriculture, it functions as a nonprofit association. Any planned rate increases require a 5-year notice to its customers, providing clients with cost-stability.

Potential funding for the project could come from a combination of city-issued bonds, a local option sales tax, the State Revolving Fund, (SRF), and an increase in water rates.

Officials projected that household water rates would increase from $56.25 to $58.46, only $2.21 on 2,000 gallons monthly. On monthly usage of 5,000 gallons, the cost would increase from $78.87 to $83.33, a modest increase of $4.46.

The Iowa Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Iowa Finance Authority (IFA) jointly administer the SRF. The DNR administers the environmental and permitting aspects to get projects ready for financing. This includes engineering and design approval, and construction permits.

City officials said the planned project would serve Wellman well into the future and that continued improvements could be handled on a case-by-case basis.

The city has scheduled its first public hearing on a potential water rate increase for March 20.

tents, they "took a defensive stand, kept it from spreading to the next building, and basically let it burn itself out," Zahradnek said. Riverside and Wellman firefighters were enroute to the blaze, but "we turned them around when we realized that there was nothing to save," he said. The building at 2475 560th Street SW, Kalona, was owned by Lester Yoder. The contents of the building belonged to Eric and Elrose Gingerich. The equipment housed inside the shed that was lost to the fire included three tractors, a uniloader, a bean drill, a planter, a trailer, and a hay mower. Zahradnek believes the fire to be accidental, possibly caused by one of the tractors inside the shed. "An electrical short or something," he surmises.

Highland Schools tax levy rate for FY24 proposed for 13.00308

BY PAUL D. BOWKER The News

RIVERSIDE

The Highland Community Schools property tax levy rate for Fiscal Year 2024 is proposed for 13.00308, which is about one cent lower than this year's rate.

Ken Crawford, Schools Superintendent, said during Monday's regularly scheduled meeting of the Highland School Board that the district is attempting to be responsible with its spending and not raise taxes.

A public hearing was set for 5 p.m. April 10, when the levy rate and proposed budget is presented.

School budgets and levy rates must be set by April 30, per state code.

Property taxes are proposed to raise $4.3 million with another $3.5 million coming from state funds and $135,925 in utility replacement money.

A levy rate of 13 means that each $1,000 of property carries a $13 schools tax.

Total expenditures for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, are targeted for $11.293 million.

2023-24 Calendar

The Board approved the school calendar for the 2023-24 school year.

The first day of classes will be Wednesday, Aug. 23, following two days of teacher in-service days.

The district will have four quarters of classes, finishing with the last day of school on Friday, May 24, 2024.

Winter break is scheduled for Dec. 22, 2023, through Jan. 2, 2024. Spring break is March 14 and 15, 2024.

Board Action

The Board approved an operational sharing agreement with WACO for the 2023-24 school year.

The Board approved the purchase of a 12-passenger van from Charles Capper Auto Center of Marengo for $31,375, including trade-ins. The van will be used for athletic teams and other school activity transportation needs. The Board approved a resolution authorizing the redemption of General Obligation School Bonds and a second amendment to an escrow agent agreement. The Board approved a number of district policies. Next board meeting: The board will hold its next monthly meeting at 5 p.m. April 10. A work session is scheduled for March 27 at 5 p.m.

"Tree-Mendous" hit in Kalona

TJ RHODES The News

KALONA

Those who wanted to learn about trees had the opportunity to meet Peter Lundgren and Nick McGrath with Trees Forever, a non-profit organization planting trees in Iowa and Illinois, at the "Tree-Mendous Growth" event held at the Kalona Library on Mar. 11.

Lundgren and McGrath taught the importance of tree diversity and the benefits of growing trees. Streets that are shaded last longer and create cooler sidewalks. Shaded houses save on energy. Downtown areas with more trees are proven to aid in tourism. Trees serve more than just aesthetics.

Trees Forever visited Kalona because the city's tree canopy was recently remapped. The organization likes to work with cities to help increase their canopy cover. To get a city's tree canopy remapped, they can contact the DNR on their website.

Trees Forever urged passionate residents to create tree committees in their communities. If a committee gets an Arbor Day passed, creates a forestry program with an annual budget of $2 per capita, and passes a tree care ordinance, a town can become a "Tree City USA." This title is a "badge of honor," according to McGrath. Trees Forever can help a committee through the various steps.

For Kalona, the city council plans to look at credits for plating over 250 oak trees and new tree inventory grants, according to City Administrator, Ryan Schlabaugh.

Trees Forever presented two grants a city could apply for. The Alliant Energy Grant provides $5,000 to plant trees on public land. The second was the Grow Green for Students grant with Green State which offers up to $5,000 to plant trees at local schools.

Mid-Prairie and Hillcrest track & field teams take part in the IATC Indoor championships

BY GIOVANNI CORONEL

The News

AMES

Even with this consistent chilly weather making it hard for most folks to even walk down the street without shivering up a storm, the 2023 track and field season has begun to take shape. The best way to combat this frost inducing weather is to stay inside and that is just what Mid-Prairie and Hillcrest did for its first track meet of the season.

The Golden Hawks and the Ravens traveled to Ames for the two day event, March 9-10, that is the Iowa Association of Track Coaches (IATC) Indoor Championships, located in Iowa State University's Lied Athletic Recreation Center.

Individual participants who place in the top six and relays placing in the top three would be awarded medals at this indoor meet. Running, jumping, throwing this indoor track meet had it all, with the girls competing on March 9 and the boys competing on March 10.

All-State Huskie cousins: Burton and Stokes

Sarah Burton, a junior at Highland High School, doesn't stop. Not for a minute.

There is basketball. And softball. And track. And volleyball.

And just in case that wasn't enough, you might even see her pop in for a cameo appearance at school board meeting.

"All-around athlete," said Jody Fink, four-sport athletes. She does long jump. I do long jump. She played volleyball. I play volleyball. We all play the same sports. She was shortstop. When she graduated, I took her spot."

"We're very similar in how we play and how we lead a team," she added. "She's just someone I've looked up to."

Add All-State to the list. Burton was named All-State in girls basketball this year, the first Huskie to achieve that list since her cousin did so four years ago. Burton helped the Huskies to a 10-win season and led the Southeast Iowa Super Conference North in rebounds (284), steals (87) and blocks (58). She was the top junior scorer.

Go back to 2019, and Stokes, coached by Fink, led the SEISC North in defensive rebounds, steals and blocks. The cousins are certainly athletic sisters. Close ones. "She fills so many different roles," Fink said of Burton. "As a ballhandler, as a rebounder, defender. She's a great all-around player."

Aly Stokes, a 2019 Highland High graduate and a 2019 All-State selection in basketball, also didn't stop. Basketball, softball, track, volleyball.

Aly is an older cousin of Sarah. And an inspiration.

Mid-Prairie's Landry Pacha chooses Central for Volleyball

BY GIOVANNI CORONEL

The News

WELLMAN

Friends, coaches, teammates, and family all gathered in the Mid-Prairie High School library on March 8 for one purpose, to witness standout Mid-Prairie athlete Landry Pacha sign a letter of intent to continue her volleyball career at Central College in Pella.

"I knew I wanted to keep playing because I love volleyball so much. I couldn't stop after high school," Landry Pacha told KCII sports last December. "When I went there (Central), I just knew that was where I wanted to go. I loved the campus, the college, everything about it was just great. The volleyball coach is amazing, she's so much fun. The atmosphere there is amazing."

Before any documents were signed for Pacha to continue her academic and athletic career at Central, Mid-Prairie volleyball head coach, Sherry Evans, thanked everyone for coming to the event and said some kind words about Pacha.

"Some of the really awesome honors Landry has had all over the years, she's been an all-conference player, she's been an academic all conference player, so classroom wise she's a sharp one," Evans said. "This recent year she got all-district as well. She was captain for three years, and did a really good job in leading our team in assists basically every year. A new stat for her this year was hitting, which was different but she rocked it, and she led the team in kills. We're really proud of her."

After the pleasant formalities came to a close, Landry, with her parents, Nick and Laney Pacha, sitting next to her, signed her name on the dotted line to make her decision official.

WELLMAN

Hands were taped from the strain of pushing a wheelchair in the heat of a basketball game. But there was nothing but smiles from the people playing in the Wellman Parkside Center. That's because they were there for a good cause, supporting the Adaptive Sports Iowa (ASI) wheelchair basketball program with a fundraiser basketball tournament along with food and silent auctions/ raffles. The event, held on Mar. 11, was a success. It was organized by Dixie Conrad and Shelli Stafford.

Some of the ASI Grizzlies attended this event, a wheelchair basketball team filled with seven players spanning six cities in Iowa. Representing Wellman was Mid-Prairie sophomore, Jayden Stafford.

Grizzlies The refereed games in the tourney before getting a chance to play the winners, winning the exhibition game 35-22. The Grizzlies did not hold back from showing the amateurs how it's done by crashing into their chairs, knocking them to the ground and rolling away with the big lead in the second half after some friendly smack-talk motivated them.

The Grizzlies will be representing Iowa at the National Wheelchair Basketball Association (NWBA) Nationals Invitational in Wichita, Kansas, between Mar. 24-26.

Stafford is a manager for the Mid-Prairie basketball team and has been playing wheelchair basketball for some time. He enjoyed his time at the tourneys.

"For me, it's enjoyable seeing like, all the people, seeing what your sport is about and seeing that it's not what other people think of, just pushing really slow up the court," Stafford said. "It shows the community what I do in my free time and what I want to do with my life."

Stafford is an advocate for adaptive sports for those with disabilities because nothing should hold them back from accomplishing their dreams.

Just because you have a disability doesn't mean you can't go out and compete at the same level [as an] NFL or NBA type person would," Stafford said. "There's still D1 athletes, there's still D2 athletes, there's still college athletes, there's people playing overseas right now to compete for the number one spot in the entire world [with disabilities]."

Anyone could form a team and experience basketball in a wheelchair with teams formed up to five people. Entry was $25 per person. If someone did not want to play, they could just donate to the cause. Some community members like Daren Lambert, head coach for the Mid-Prairie Golden Hawks boys' team, was seen at the event in support. Lambert, playing in the tourney until the end.

'This is the second time I've done it. It's just as fun as the first time. It's a great experience and like I said, it goes to a good cause, so, it's easy to do," Lambert said.

Lambert felt the brunt of the sport by having sore shoulders and wrapped fingers. It is a tough game to jump into. He felt the games against other amateurs were much easier than the game against the Grizzlies

"[The Grizzlies are] fast. They fly up and down the court," Lambert said. "If they don't want you to move, they can literally stop you whenever they want.

Josh Anderson attended this event as someone who is relatively new to wheelchair basketball but was encouraged to play by Conrad and others. In his games, he moved quick and seemed to have a good grasp for how the game is played. He thinks he might continue to play in the future.

"It's really tiring and really takes skill. I thought it was going to be easy at first, but it was really hard," Anderson said. "[I'm] just having fun, you know, working with my teammates, I've been building up the chemistry."

Events like this are great to showcase adaptive sports for those with disabilities. It can help students get scholarships for college and continue playing the sports they love.

Some other programs ASI offers are sled hockey, track & field, tennis, beep baseball and cycling, to list a few. They provide a fun way for those with disabilities to still enjoy sports and are always looking for more participants.

Mid-Prairie's Pete Cavanagh: 'Time to step back'

BY PAUL BOWKER

The News

Pete Cavanagh, the winningest coach in Mid-Prairie football history, is giving up his head-coaching position after serving for 20 years in that job and several years before that as an assistant.

He announced his resignation publicly through social media last Friday.

"I have really enjoyed coaching football at Mid-Prairie," Cavanagh told The News. "The players have been awesome. A blue-collar work ethic and strong characters makes any coach's job easier. Also, our staff over the years has been top notch."

Cavanagh won 123 games over 20 seasons and coached Mid-Prairie to its first playoff victory 18 years ago.

Cavanagh's teams posted winning seasons the last four years, including 2021 when his son, quarterback Will Cavanagh, played his final senior season for the Golden Hawks, nearly winning a district championship and then winning a River Valley Conference championship in basketball.

"My hero and role model!" Will Cavanagh, who is now a freshman at Central College, said on Twitter. "Congrats for an amazing run and thank you for all the memories."

Mid-Prairie head football coach Pete Cavanagh, shown coaching the Mid-Prairie team during a preseason practice, won a school-record 123 games as head coach.

Pete Cavanagh, a social studies teacher at Mid-Prairie, also was appreciative of the support shown by his wife, Erin, who is also a teacher at Mid-Prairie.

"Thanks to my wife, Erin, for supporting me through it all," he said.

The positive vibes have already started to roll in.

"Pete is a valued member of the Mid-Prairie family," said Tyler Hotz, Activities Director. "He's a great leader of men."

"Coaching with Coach Cavanagh has been an honor and a positive experience in my career," said Daren Lambert, head boys basketball coach and defensive coordinator in football. "Our time working together the last seven years has made me a better coach and person, and that is due to the skills Coach Cav has taught me, as well as the experiences we have had together throughout our coaching career. He is a person who puts kids first and wants to bring out the best in anyone he works with."

"Cav was a great coach and a fun person to be around," said Cain Brown, a senior who was a receiver for the Golden Hawks and hopes to play college football. "He connected with the players and cared for all of them. He always had a competitive mindset and it made all of the teams that he coached tough. He created a legacy and will be a person I will always remember."

For Pete Cavanagh, whose son Will is now on the football team at Central College in Pella, the timing for a departure seemed right. But, in fact, he hopes it won't be a total departure.

"I think it was just time," he said. "Time for me to step back, time for someone else to have a chance. I really hope to still be involved in a much smaller role, give input and help our younger guys develop.

"I really appreciate the community support. It's been second to none."

While Cavanagh's resignation won't be official until it is accepted by the school board later this month, Hotz said a search for a new coach would begin soon.

Cavanagh led the Golden Hawks to a school-record 10 wins in 2008 and defeated Iowa City Regina in the state round of 16.

The 2012 and 2013 Golden Hawk teams won 17 of 22 games, following up the 18-5 record posted by the 2008 and 2009 teams.

The Golden Hawks won six of 10 games this past season, defeating Northeast in the 2A playoffs and then losing to district champion and state finalist Williamsburg.

ond Team.

"It also helps show her that she's respected throughout the state on that, as well," Fink said. "For her to get on (All-State) basketball, it says a lot. Even moving forward, it puts her name out there for other college coaches to sit there and take a look at. She was one of the top players in our conference all the way around." And then there's track. Burton nearly won All-State honors as a sophomore, finishing third in the long jump at the state championships. The top two win All-State selection.

And in softball, Burton is one of the best baserunners in the state. Just like Aly.

Burton has stolen 75 bases in her first three varsity seasons, including 9-for-9 in her eighth-grade season.

Stokes had 81 stolen bases in her five varsity seasons, including 6-for-6 in her freshman season of 2015. In her last two seasons, Stokes was never thrown out.

As Burton enters the last months of her junior year, college choices are entering the conversation. Not only where, but in which sport? There could be multiple options.

"I really do think she can sit there, she'll be able to pick what sport she wants to do," Fink said. "She's a very good softball player. Track, she flies, could do that if she wanted to. Volleyball, she can play the front row, she can play the back row. Basketball, she can handle the ball."

"I'm leaning toward softball or volleyball," she said, "just because I feel like that's where I feel I'm most dominant. I enjoy all of them."

Just like Aly.

Burton's senior season will be so different. She'll be the team leader, not just in stats but vocally. It'll be an important role for a Huskie team that won't have many seniors.

"Her teammates will react," Fink said. "They follow her pretty well. She doesn't say a whole lot right now. But when she does speak up, when she does talk, her teammates listen."

Coming out of this season, it is a lesson that has already stuck with Burton.

"I learned not to be selfish and just encourage others as much as I can because that encouragement will boost their confidence," she said. Well said.

Mid-Prairie senior Landry Pacha, surrounded by teammates, coaches, and friends, was all smiles during her signing event at the Mid-Prairie high school library.

for the Golden Hawks, Pacha put together a remarkable season. On offense she led the team in assists and kills, with 407 and 264 respectively. On defense she finished the year with 254 digs and 28 blocks total. As a server she scored a team best 47 aces and had a 94.2% serve efficiency rate Pacha's athletic talents don't just end on the volleyball court. A multisport athlete for Mid-Prairie, Pacha's final season of high school basketball came to a close last month. She was selected second-team all conference in the River Valley Conference South and ended the season with 239 points, 30 assists, and 167 rebounds.

As a freshman Pacha was able to earn a spot on the starting lineup for the volleyball team. Getting better and better every year Pacha was able to accomplish the impressive milestone of 1,000 assists as a junior in 2021.

"Landry has been a huge part of MP's success. As a freshman we threw her in as a 6-2 setter alongside senior Cassidy Hershberger. Landry just blossomed from there as a setter," Evans said. "Her sophomore & junior years she was our only setter running a 5-1. Her senior year we got to utilize her hitting talents and again ran a 6-2 with freshman Jovi Evans. Landry has been an incredible leader for our team.

Part of a rebuild for Mid-Prairie volleyball, put into motion by head coach Sherry Evans, Pacha was an essential component of the Golden Hawks going from a 22 loss team in 2019 to a 27 win team in 2022.

"[Pacha] is an extremely versatile player and Central College has found an incredible talent as an all around volleyball player," Evans said. "We are so proud of Landry and her commitment to the Central College volleyball program! She has an incredible work ethic in season and in off season! She will definitely be missed by MP and we are so excited for her continuing her volleyball career."

Pacha, undecided on her major, has plans to focus academically on kinesiology and health science. Appreciative to her teammates and coaches who helped her along the way Pacha will no doubt always remember her time playing volleyball for Mid-Prairie.

PROCLAMATION NO. 03-02-23-01 INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY AND WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH MARCH 2023

Summary: International Women's Day is a global day celebrating the social, eco-nomic, cultural, and political achievements of women. This year's theme of the Johnson County United Nations Association's celebration of International Women's Day is "Sustainable Develop-ment Goal #15, Life on Land". Women are recognized for serving as early leaders in the forefront of every major progressive movement: suffrage, abolitionist, emancipation, industrial labor, civil rights, equal rights, social justice, women's health rights, fair housing, equal wage and opportunity. Fulfill-ing gender equality rights is the best chance we have in meeting some of the most pressing challenges of our timefrom economic crisis and lack of health care, to climate change, violence against women, and escalating conflicts.

Board Action: Proclaimed March 8 and the month of March 2023 to be International Women's Day and Women's History Month in Johnson County, Iowa, and urged residents to recognize and support the contributions of women in the changing world. Motion by Fixmer-Oraiz, second by Porter, to approve Proclamation 03-02-23-01. BOARD OF SUPERVISORS WASHINGTON COUNTY, IOWA REGULAR MEETING OF TUESDAY. FEBRUARY 28, 2023

At 9:01 am Chair Bob Yoder called the meeting to order in regular session, Courthouse Chambers. Items on the agenda included: WEMIGA Waste Systems monthly report/funding assistance request; FY24 Law Contracts; Quarterly Report-County Engineer; approval of Agreement No. 2024-TS-004 for Traffic Safety Improvement Project Funding assistance for County Road G36 (220th Street) safety improvements including paved shoulders and rumble strips; closed session pursuant to Iowa Code §21.5(1)(j) to discuss purchase or sale of particular real estate only where premature disclosure could be reasonably expected to increase the price the gov ernmental body would have to pay for that property; possible action re: matters discussed in closed session. Su-pervisors Jack Seward, Jr. and Richard Young were also present while Marcus Fedler participated by remote means. Supervisor Stan Stoops was absent.

All motions were passed unanimously by those Supervisors in attendance unless noted otherwise.

The Board voted to approve the agenda.

Lynn Whaley, WEMIGA Waste Systems, (WEMIGA) presented a report that detailed WEMIGA activities for January 2023. During the month WEMIGA processed 58.73 landfill tons, 2.47 tons of glass, 1.64 tons of paper, 0.00 tons of plastic, 11.68 tons of cardboard, 3.38 tons of tin and aluminum, 19.17 tons of recyclable material, 20 appliances, 50 televisions and other electronic devices. 27 batteries, 3 tires, and 3 gallons of used oil. The Board voted to acknowl-edge the WEMIGA Waste System Report for January 2023. The complete report is available for review in the Auditor's office.

Whaley shared that until recently WEMIGA received payment for card-board that it transported to Quincy Recycle in Marion, Iowa, where the cardboard is in turn recycled. However, in January 2023 WEMIGA was billed by Ouincy Recycle in the amount of $20.00 per ton for such cardboard. When Whaley questioned the charge, he was informed it was the result of low market conditions for cardboard, the closing of a large pulp mill in Minnesota which utilized cardboard, and a decrease of over 50% in box orders over the past 12 months. Whalev asked to be reimbursed by the County for the fees paid to Quincy Recycle prior to unloading cardboard. The Board voted to reimburse WEMIGA for the fees paid for unloading cardboard.

The Board voted to approve the following law enforcement contracts for July 1, 2023 through June 30, 2024 and to authorize the Chair to sign: with the City of Ainsworth at an annual cost of $31,676.00; with the City of Brighton at an annual cost of $41,197.00; with the City of Crawfordsville at an annual cost of $15,620.00; with the City of Kalona at an annual cost of $239,417.00; with the City of Riverside at an annual cost of $220,401.00; with the City of Wellman at an annual cost of $115,967.00; with the City of West Chester at an annual cost of $10,334.00.

County Engineer Jacob Thorius provided the Board with the Second-ary Roads Quarterly Report for the 4th quarter of calendar year 2022. During the quarter Secondary Roads staff hauled a total of 11,089 tons of road rock, replaced 130 feet of road pipe, and cleaned approximately 2,500 feet of roadway ditches. The report also provided a summary of various road construction projects undertaken and/ or completed during the quarter. Thorius shared that during the quarter a combined total of $110,838.60 was spent on salt, sand, employee hours, and equipment in response to five snow events. Other highlights of the quarter included the grading and rocking of Elm Avenue from 250th Street to Iowa Highway 92, a review of calendar year 2022 bridge inspections which revealed no glaring issues, and the maintenance and servicing of 36 various non-department vehicles for a total of $13,860,00. All of the work performed during the quarter was completed with a daily average of six staff members, out of a possible 33. absent from work due to vacation or illness. The Board voted to acknowledge receipt of the Secondary Roads Ouarterly Report for the 4th quarter of calendar year 2022. The complete report is available for viewing in the Auditor's office.

The Board voted to approve Agreement No. 2024-TS-004 for Traffic Safety Improvement Project (TSIP) Funding as sistance for County Road G36 (220th Street). The project will take place along an approximate three mile stretch of the road and will involve safety enhancements that will include paved shoulders and rumble strips. Thorius expressed optimism that the $500,000.00 in TSIP funding assistance will cover approximately 50% of the total cost of the project.

At 9:27 am the Board voted by roll call vote to enter into closed session pursuant to Iowa Code §21.5(1)(j) to discuss purchase or sale of particular real estate only where premature disclosure could be reasonably expected to increase the price the governmental body would have to pay for that property. At 10:30 am the Board voted by roll call vote to return to open session.

The Board voted to authorize JCG Land Services to negotiate on behalf of the Board with regard to the terms of an agreement with affected landowners as discussed in closed session. At 10:33 am the Board voted to adjourn

Attest: s/DANIEL L. WIDMER, County Auditor

Kalona

Two women riding in a buggy escaped serious injury Thursday afternoon, but the horse, drawing the vehicle had to be killed after a collision with an automobile on Highway 1 north of Kalona.

It was the second car-buggy collision in that area in the past three months. Both buggies involved were owned by Chriss B. Miller, Kalona, father of the occupants of the buggy involved in Thursday's mishap.

Mrs. Freeman Miller was driving the buggy Thursday and was accompanied by her sister, Miss Leona Miller. Mrs. Miller suffered a bruised hip in the mishap.

Driver of the automobile was Cecil B. Amlong, of Washington, who told highway patrolmen his auto skidded into the rear of the buggy when he applied his brakes on the icy highway. The right front of the car struck the left rear wheel of the buggy.

The buggy was badly damaged--the box being torn loose from the wheels and tipped over onto its side. The wheels of the buggy remained upright. The horse suffered a broken leg and was shot by a farmer who came to the scene of the mishap

A buggy driven by Chriss Miller was wrecked in a collision with an automobile December 24. This mishap occurred within a quarter mile of the accident Thursday afternoon.

There is a critical demand for farm workers here in Washington County--both for single and married men. Good wages are paid plus housing and the various "extras," such as meat, milk and eggs or feed for chickens.

Mrs. Pamela Lay, Manager of the Iowa State Employment Service, stated that there are openings for waitresses, farm hands, stenographers, maids and an excellent job for a good, experienced typist. Anyone who qualifies should contact the office in the Morrison building on the north side of the square in Washington.

Thirty votes were cast at the school election on Monday, electing Ferd Skola to a three-year term to the board of directors and A.A. Jackson being elected as treasurer for a two-year term.

The case of the stinking turkeys points up the dangers of big government and the task facing the new secretary of agriculture.

Chronologically, the story starts early in January before the Eisenhower administration took over. A shipment of progovernment spare 12 persons for inspection duty on a carload of turkeys that were for give-away purposes in the first place? Benefits that are paid under the Social Security Act can be divided into two classes, retirement benefits and survivors' benefits. These payments are called retirement payments since they cannot be made unless the insured person is 65 or over and has stopped working or is earning less than $75 per month. If the benefits are stopped because of earnings of more than the amount permitted by the Act, they will be started again when the individual no longer has those earnings.

He was a baker by trade and had lived in Iowa City for 24 years. Mr. Scott was born in Riverside, he was a son of Arthur and Mary Shradel Scott, both of whom have preceded him in death. He was a graduate of St. Mary's school and a member of St. Mary's church here.

Maudie Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Miller is having more than her share of hard luck, last week it was measles, on Sunday she was feeling good and planning to go back to school on Monday, but a bite of sauerkraut at Sunday dinner revealed to Maudie that mumps had set in. What next, Maudie?

Mumps have been spreading among the adults here recently. Among the latest victims, most of whom are now able to be out again, were Mrs. Donald Rath and small daughter Karen, Wilbur, Omar and Harold Rath and Dave Rotenburger.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Miller suggested the name chosen, so they will be the recipients of the 'Steaks for Two' offered to the one submitting the best name.

High school editorial: Do you like to bother people and the majority of us would quickly answer, no. I may play a few practical jokes or embarrass someone unintentionally, but I don't annoy people.

If you look around, you can usually find someone who fits this description. He is sticking someone with a pin, poking one with a newly sharpened pencil, using his history book as a blackjack, or writing initials on someone's notebook paper.

Is this somebody you? Stop and think. Do I enjoy pestering people? If everyone bothered our neighbors as some of us do, study halls and class rooms would be in a bedlam.

Disturbing those around us may bring us some attention, but is this the type of attention we really want? Also, someone's property might be damaged. Or by accident, somebody injured. If this happened we wouldn't receive the type of attention we care for. Let's try to convert our excess energy into something worthwhile instead of being a pest.

Mr. W.L. Wade, Mayor has received numerous complaints about stray dogs as well as licensed dogs running at large. Many people are making preparations for the gardening season ahead, and dressing up their lawns with grass seed and fertilizer. Nothing can be more irritating than after one has spent a lot of time in cleaning up ones premises to find nine or ten dogs in one bunch, tearing around through the lawn and garden.

Just a warning to all dog owners: All licensed dogs are to be tied up immediately and permanently. Any stray dogs caught running loose, will be taken care of by turning them over to the University hospital at Iowa City for experimental purposes.

On Tuesday, March 10, the Driver Training Class met under the supervision of Mr. C.M. Stoner, instructor, to determine whether they wanted to organize a Teenage Driver Club. The students voted for the idea, so next, they voted by secret ballot for a president, vice president and secretary-treasurer. Bob Topping was voted president, Dorothea Swartzendruber, vice president and Mark Kraft, secretary-treasurer. There are 27 members of this club and a few students of the class were absent.

This new club will do such things as make safety posters, distribute safety savings among the High School students, keep a count of highway accidents, etc. Twenty-seven members and friends of the Mary and Martha Sunday school class gathered at the home of Mrs. Vida Godber Wednesday for their March meeting.

As usual a quilt in the frames was the main attraction and entertainment. A nice lot of work was accomplished during the day and a faithful bunch of workers finished it on Friday.

This made the ninth quilt completed since January 1, 1953.

The Wellman Boy Scout Troop 236 realized $172.47 from the Pancake Day held Saturday at the Wellman Skelgas Store. Proceeds will be used for camping equipment and summer camping.

During the day over 1,000 pancakes and 100 pounds of sausage was served to the customers. The most pancakes reported eaten by any one adult was 18, while one child consumed 11. Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Popp of Mason City, Nebraska was from the farthest distance among those who attended.

Anonymous for now: I've often heard the remark, "Those were the good old days way back then" and thank goodness that's when they were--way back when.

remember Mama, getting up to a cold house when the first rooster crowed or crawed or crew or whatever the first rooster does, trotting around building the fire and starting breakfast while Papa stayed snugly in bed. On cold mornings now, Daughter kicks the beloved spouse out and makes him turn up the thermostat.

Mama pumped water to make the morning coffee, when and if the old cook stove put forth. Now, Daughter creeps out and plugs in the electric percolator.

Mama made wheat cakes, fried potatoes, meat and oft time biscuits and gravy. Daughter's family will be lucky to get cold cereal, provided Daughter has the strength to tear open the box, clearly marked "Open at this end."

Mama took the ladle and pitcher, went to the cave and dipped off the thick cream from the crock for the family breakfast. Daughter was at odds and ends when the Wellman Creamery burned and there was no good cream for an eternity, well, nearly a month, and the family used milk on their cereal. from the box clearly marked "Open at this end."

Mama of the olden days seemed to be used and abused. Maybe that's when the old adage "It's a man's world" originated. Mama didn't have the time or energy left over to get a toe-hold on the fast moving process called life.

cessed ready-to-cook turkeys, which had been bought under the price support program, arrived in Colorado, where the Production and Marketing Administration (PMA) planned to distribute the turkeys for use in the school lunch program. It is reported the shipment consists of about 24,000 pounds of turkey, and valued at about $16,000.

The schools found the turkeys unfit for human consumption and sent them back to PMA. The Colorado public health authorities examined the turkeys and found them "subject to intensive putrefaction, deterioration and decomposition."

Now, the PMA officials could let the matter drop there. But not PMA. They got possession of the turkeys and sent them on to Omaha on the pretext that some of the meat might be salvaged. The turkeys were sent to a cold storage firm which leases space to the government. There, two Omaha and two state of Nebraska health inspectors found the turkeys to be "foul and decomposed" and a hold order was placed on the birds.

Again, PMA officials had an opportunity to take the stinking birds out of circulation. But did that happen? Oh, no. Instead, the birds again were examined, this time by 12 federal inspectors at least three of whom had journeyed from Washington for the big event--and they reported the birds okay. But health officials in Omaha were not satisfied with the manner in which the so-called inspection was conducted. They claimed that someone "made a boner and is trying to cover up." Anyone who tries to pawn them off ought to be ashamed.

One health official suggested that the turkeys be served to the federal inspectors.

There are two phases of the case we can't understand.

First, if the turkeys are not fit for human consumption under inspection regulations of two states, why do a dozen PMA officials continue to try to get the birds into the school lunch program?

Secondly, how can the federal
